I. OCC CASELOAD

For the fifth consecutive year, during 2001, OCC made demonstrable and, in some aspects, dramatic progress on caseload. (See "Comprehensive Statistical Report" and "Comparative Overview of Caseload" in Attachments to this Report) Once again, the bulk of credit for this feat must go to OCC's investigative and administrative personnel. (See Section II. of this report, pp. 14-16, below) At year's end in 2001, a total of 251 cases were pending, including only 9 cases filed before 2001. By contrast, at end of year 2000, a total of 426 cases were pending, including 38 cases filed before 2000; at end of year 1999, a total of 509 cases were pending, including 86 cases filed before 1999; at end of year 1998, a total of 556 cases were pending, including 82 cases filed before 1998; at end of year 1997, a total of 575 cases were pending, including 49 cases filed before 1997.

OCC's closure rate during 2001 was an average of 7.0 cases per investigator, with average monthly availability of 13.5 investigators (up .9 FTE from Year 2000). This investigator availability rate takes into account training and probationary periods for new investigators, absences and leaves. The complaint closure rate of 7.0 average per investigator per month, particularly when coupled with the dramatic backlog and case pending reductions accomplished in 2001, represents substantial fulfillment of the 8.0 internal agency goal (average number of closures per investigator per month) that was first established within OCC during 1997.

OCC opened 961 new complaints during 2001, down 9%-14% from previous recent years (1053 in 2000, 1074 in 1999, 1057 in 1998, 1123 in 1997). The drop-off in new complaints occurred during the months of September through December, 2001 (58-69 complaints per month, as contrasted with 72-100 complaints per month in September-December of 1999 and 2000). This drop-off in new complaints filed appears to have been related to the tragedies of September 11, 2001 and, it would seem, to police and public responses and reactions to those events.

OCC closed a total of 1133 complaints during 2001, up 4%-16% over all previous recent years except for year 1999

(1090 closed in 2000, 1161 closed in 1999, 1043 in 1998, 979 in 1997). OCC's overall strong case closure rate in 2001 reduced case backlog and pending case numbers to all-time record lows in 2001, as set forth above.

These indicia of caseload efficiency were accomplished while OCC continued to achieve thorough analysis and investigation of civilian complaints. As OCC originally informed the Police Commission and the public by means of a special report filed in mid-1999 (Office of Citizen Complaints, "Performance and Productivity as to Complaint Caseload", reprinted in pertinent part in "Public Accountability of Police Officers and Institutions: The San Francisco Experience as Model and Microcosm", M. Dunlap, State of California Controller's Quarterly, pp. 7-9 (Winter 2000), available on-line at www.sco.ca.gov), OCC has markedly and conscientiously improved the completeness with which it analyzes civilian complaints and by which it identifies specific allegations of misconduct raised by complaints. This is demonstrated by the average number of allegations identified per civilian complaint over the years of OCC operations. Between 1989 and 2000, OCC went from an average of 1.88-2.81 allegations per civilian complaint (1989-1996) to an average of 4.29-4.78 allegations per complaint (1997-2000) (OCC Year 2000 Annual Report, p. 14, available online at www.ci.sf.ca.us/occ). During 2001, OCC identified an average of 4.67 allegations per civilian complaint (4250 allegations in 911 complaints filed, excluding merged, voided and no finding cases). In 2001, as in the four previous years, by the measure of average number of allegations identified, OCC maintained the previously documented level of improvement in completeness of its analysis of complaints.

Making striking progress in caseload closures and backlog reduction, while maintaining thorough analysis and identification of allegations raised by complaints, OCC also achieved a notably high level of full investigation of complaints. As discussed in recent previous OCC annual reports, OCC fully investigates a significantly higher percentage of complaints presented than do comparable civilian-run police accountability agencies in other cities. In 2000, OCC fully investigated 88.4% of all complaints filed (Year 2000 Annual Report, p. 16). During 2001, OCC fully investigated 84.9% of all complaints closed (to wit., 962 of 1133 closed, which consisted of all but 121 outside OCC's jurisdiction and 50 merged, voided or withdrawn).

The magnitude and strength of OCC's full investigation rate is difficult to compare and contrast with those of other cities, because the powers and responsibilities of other cities' civilian oversight agencies vary widely, and because statistical reporting is not standardized. Most other cities in the United States that have civilian oversight agencies limit their powers to auditing internal affairs investigations or investigating a small pool of the overall total of civilian complaints. (See, National Institute of Justice, Citizen Review of Police: Approaches and Implementation passim (March 2001)). Nevertheless, it appears to be factually accurate to conclude from available reports that, as in previous years, San Francisco's OCC fully investigated a substantially higher percentage of cases presented to it during 2001 than did other civilian oversight agencies in the United States. For examples within California: San Jose's Independent Police Auditor's office audited 201 cases investigated by the San Jose Police Department's internal affairs division, 30% of a total of 694 complaints received by both agencies (City of San Jose Office of the Independent Police Auditor, 2000 Year End Report, p. 38 (4/30/01)); San Diego's civilian oversight agency as to sheriffs and probation officers, the Citizens' Law Enforcement Review Board, fully investigated 49% (107 of the 213 cases processed and closed) in 1999 (San Diego County CLERB, 1999 Annual Report, p. 7 (2000)); and, according to a telephone discussion between OCC Director Mary Dunlap and Inspector General Jeffrey Eglash on July 5, 2002, the City of Los Angeles' Office of the Inspector General, which has legal authority (but, the author of this report observes, apparently neither the budget and personnel resources nor the requisite LAPD cooperation) to fully investigate any complaint it selects, itself fully investigated a total of between 20 and 25 cases filed with LA's OIG during 2001, and a total of between 20 and 25 cases filed with it during 2000 (primarily consisting of complaints concerning personnel within the Chief of Police's office and complaints by LAPD employees concerning retaliation), while OIG initiated a total of 127 complaints for LAPD investigation during 2001, and while LAPD received a total of 5,683 complaints, including both civilian and officer complaints, during 2001. (Los Angeles Police Commission Office of the Inspector General, 2001 Annual Report, p. 9 (April '02)).

By the familiar quantitative measures summarized above, OCC during 2001 handled its civilian complaint investigation and closure responsibilities with notable efficiency and completeness. The backlog and cases pending reductions accomplished by OCC staff during 2001 set records, relative to every prior year of OCC's 18 years of City service.

The most labor-intensive and rigorously scrutinized of OCC's work product consists of this agency's sustained findings and case reports. Both internally and externally, OCC's sustained findings and reports receive the greatest attention of all types of OCC findings, except perhaps for "Policy Failure" and "Training Failure" findings and resulting recommendations. Within OCC, sustained case findings and reports are closely examined by supervisory and management personnel within investigative staff, by the OCC Director, and, in general, by OCC legal staff. Outside OCC, all sustained findings and investigative reports go to the Chief's designee, ordinarily within SFPD's Management Control Division, "...for review and action...", prescribed to take place within 60 days of receipt from OCC (SFPD General Order 2.04 III. A. 5. a. & b.)). Disciplinary hearings by the Chief or his/her designee and by the Police Commission represent final administrative levels of scrutiny of OCC sustained findings, and of the sufficiency of evidence to uphold them, by means of fact-finding hearings at those respective levels. Whether a disciplinary matter is resolved at Chief's or Police Commission level is supposed to be determined by the seriousness of the sustained allegation(s), the severity of the proposed discipline, and the overall disciplinary record of the officer(s) involved (City Charter section 4.127 and Appendix A8-343; SFPD "Disciplinary Penalty & Referral Guidelines" sec. II, p. 1 (revised 12/1/94)).

During 2001, OCC reached sustained findings as to one or more allegations in 144 of 1133 complaints that OCC closed, for a sustained case rate of 12.7%. By comparison, the sustained case rates for recent previous years were: 89 sustained of 1089 complaints closed in 2000 (8.2%), 99 sustained of 1123 complaints closed in 1999 (8.8%), 108 sustained of 1043 complaints closed in 1998 (10.4%) and 101 sustained of 979 complaints closed in 1997 (10.3%). Purely as a matter of comprehending the depth and scope of OCC's productivity as to complaints during 2001, it should be noted that the sheer number of sustained cases was between 36 and 55 greater than in any of the four previous years. This represents a 25%-38% increase in the volume of sustained cases, which, as described above, are highly labor-intensive, involving careful due process-driven investigations, meticulous legal and managerial scrutiny of proposed findings, and preparation of detailed and often lengthy written reports to SFPD.

It is necessary to reiterate, as in prior annual reports of OCC, especially for those who may be new to these reports, that OCC has no goal or target for number or percentage of sustained complaints. Instead, resolution of a civilian complaint made to OCC is governed by the results of a full and independent factual investigation. City Charter section 4.127 requires that complaints be "...promptly, fairly and impartially investigated..." by OCC staff. Those who would propose to measure OCC's effectiveness by the number of cases that result in "Sustained" findings within a given period, like those who would propose to do so by the number of "Unfounded" or "Proper Conduct" findings, miss the gist of OCC's mission and design. OCC is a fact-finding agency, concerned with determining to the best of its ability what happened, and with accurately applying relevant law, Department General Orders and other sources of authority to reach fair and correct results, without regard to the popularity or unpopularity of any particular outcome.

With that caveat, the sustained case number (144) and rate (12.7%) in 2001 should be considered significant indicia of OCC's productivity. Along with the much-lowered number of cases pending and major backlog reduction, the close-to-target monthly averages of case closures, and the increased numbers of allegations per complaint (1997-2001), the sustained case number and rate demonstrate that, in 2001, OCC accomplished a record high quantity and percentage of the most labor-intensive type of complaint investigations and findings, to wit., investigations resulting in sustained cases.

These indicia of OCC productivity are all the more impressive, given consideration of an epidemic of non-compliance with OCC's investigations by some SFPD officers that took place during 2001. Some background in describing this epidemic, and in analyzing its implications for OCC-SFPD-Police Commission relationships, is required.

In 1998, at the urging of then-Assistant Chief Prentice E. Sanders and members of SFPD's Management Control and Legal Divisions, OCC agreed to permit SFPD to take over the work of investigation and proposed findings as to allegations that officers were failing to comply with SFPD General Order 2.04 insofar as compliance with OCC investigative procedures were concerned. Before 1998, OCC handled this work itself. In general, DGO 2.04's pertinent provisions are those requiring commanding officers of SFPD to accomplish timely service and return of Member Response Forms (also known as "MRFs", which are investigative questionnaires to officers from OCC investigators), and requiring commanding officers to accomplish timely service and return of notices of interview to named and witness officers in their commands, timely and complete responses to MRFs by those served, and timely appearance on the noticed date, readiness to proceed and cooperation in interviews, including providing answers to questions posed by OCC investigators in MRFs and interviews. Reports of failures to comply with DGO 2.04, which reports are termed "Blue Folders", contain evidence supporting allegations by OCC that an officer violated one or more of the provisions outlined above, despite the requirements of DGO 2.04, and of City Charter section 4.127, which provides in pertinent parts that "... [i]n carrying out its objectives the office of citizen complaints shall receive prompt and full cooperation and assistance from all departments, officers and employees of the city and county", and that "...the chief of police shall require the testimony or attendance of any member of the police department to carry out the responsibilities of the office of citizen complaints".

During 2001, OCC sent to MCD for its investigation and the Chief's resolution a total of 88 "Blue Folders" containing evidence supporting allegations as to failures to comply with DGO 2.04 by SFPD members. This represented more than a three-fold increase over the 27 "Blue Folders" sent by OCC to MCD in 2000. As in prior years since 1998, each "Blue Folder" was reviewed by the Chief Investigator and/or Director of OCC before it was forwarded to MCD, to assure sufficiency of the evidence presented to support the allegation of non-compliance. No standard of evidence was lessened by OCC, nor was any relevant part of DGO 2.04 amended, during 2001, as to the "Blue Folders" sent to SFPD.

In 2000, OCC sent 27 "Blue Folders" to MCD. SFPD sustained allegations in 27 of 28 "Blue Folders" (not all received in 2000) sent by OCC (96.4% sustained rate). By contrast, during 2001, SFPD resolved 52 OCC "Blue Folders" during 2001, and sustained allegations in only 21 (40.4% sustained rate). Of the 31 OCC "Blue Folders" resulting in other than a sustained finding during 2001, 17 involved allegations by OCC that a commanding officer of SFPD failed to serve notification within the deadline set forth on the face of the notification. OCC is informed that, in several instances, commanding officers were themselves allowed to make excuses for not serving OCC notices, rather than being held to answer for their clear transgressions of DGO 2.04. It is re-emphasized that OCC's standards of evidence for sending "Blue Folders" did not change between 2000 and 2001, and that the terms of DGO 2.04 did not change. Instead, OCC is informed that the persons permitted by SFPD to investigate the "Blue Folders" and to make findings were themselves sometimes implicated by the accusations (because commanding officers are required by DGO 2.04 to assure compliance with OCC's procedures, and because SFPD used commanding officers in 2001 to investigate at least some of the "Blue Folders"). These non-neutral investigators also were allowed to evade the application of long-fixed rules to given facts (e.g., responding to the allegation that a MRF or notice to interview was not properly served and returned by arguments such as that, because a MRF was eventually returned, or because an officer did show up for an interview at a second noticed date, OCC's investigation was not disadvantaged, and therefore no misconduct occurred). In early July, 2002, OCC also was apprised in writing by MCD that at least 4 "Blue Folders" were dismissed by SFPD due to its own untimeliness under Government Code section 3304(d); each of those 4 "Blue Folders" had been sent to SFPD by OCC within two-three weeks of the identification of the allegations of misconduct, meaning that SFPD sat on each of those 4 cases for almost a full year instead of taking required action to investigate and resolve them. The conclusion is inescapable that a serious contempt of OCC's investigative notification procedures was permitted to take place by and among some members of SFPD during 2001.

During the remainder of 2002, and as soon as practicable, OCC will be submitting revisions of DGO 2.04 for review by SFPD and approval by the Police Commission that will permit no leeway for effectuation and enforcement of the (1) already given responsibilities of commanding officers to serve notices to appear and MRFs timely upon officers, and of the (2) already given responsibilities of named officers and witness officers to return timely and properly completed MRFs and to appear timely and be prepared to proceed in OCC interviews once duly notified. While it is OCC's conclusion that there is no basis in the existing DGO for excusing the widespread disobedience documented by OCC in 88 "Blue Folders" during 2001, obviously, every possible loophole must be closed. No excuse based on any purported ambiguity in DGO 2.04's language can be afforded, if this City's system of OCC investigations of officer misconduct is to be effective.

OCC looks to the Chief and Assistant Chief of SFPD to assure that every sworn member of SFPD, including themselves, all other command staff members, supervisors and officers, abide by both the existing and any future revised DGO 2.04 provisions detailing the means of SFPD cooperation with OCC investigations. OCC also will seek assistance from the Police Commission, including seeking Commission initiative for universal imposition of automatic penalties to be imposed for non-compliance with DGO 2.04 as required. Failure to complete and return MRFs are supposed to carry a 1-day suspension under current Department disciplinary guidelines. (San Francisco Police Department, "Disciplinary Penalty & Referral Guidelines", Item 8, p. 9 (12/1/94)). Deceiving, misleading or obstructing an OCC investigation or hearing constitutes Class "B" misconduct, "generally" entailing "...suspension, termination, or fine..." (SFPD, "Disciplinary Penalty & Referral Guidelines", Part IV. B., p. 2 and Item 6., p. 4).

If the Chief's and Assistant Chief's directives, and imposition of universal, automatic suspensions and/or fines for violations of DGO 2.04 vis a vis service of and responses to OCC's MRFs and interviews fail to accomplish substantial obedience to, and Department-wide enforcement of, OCC investigative jurisdiction within SFPD, OCC will be left with no choices but to (1) reassert its power to independently investigate failures of officers, including commanding officers, to obey the terms of DGO 2.04 as these dictate cooperation with OCC's investigations, and to (2) lodge disciplinary charges as to all sustained cases of non-compliance with DGO 2.04 at Police Commission level, consistent with the Disciplinary Guidelines' message that obstruction of OCC investigations is a serious (Class "B") form of officer misconduct. While a return of the "Blue Folders" investigative and finding recommendation functions to OCC would increase OCC's workload, OCC's agreement with SFPD to have SFPD enforce these rules starting in 1998 was based on the understanding that SFPD's enforcement would be fair, complete and responsible. Until 2001, that agreement was kept; in 2001, it was flagrantly violated. In the 2002 Annual Report, or in a prompter special report if required, OCC will provide a public report to the Police Commission, setting forth the relevant "Blue Folders" statistics for 2002 and the OCC Director's conclusions about whether the enforcement authority can remain by agreement with SFPD, or whether (if the "Blue Folders" epidemic continues and is not stemmed by SFPD and Police Commission actions), OCC will reassert its actual and legal independent authority to investigate and make recommended findings in "Blue Folder" matters.

The letter and spirit of DGO 2.04, which encourage the filing and factual resolution of civilian complaints as to alleged officer misconduct and which oblige officers at all ranks to co-operate with OCC investigations, and which spell out the ways and means of that cooperation, are mandated by City Charter section 4.127, as quoted above. OCC will take all necessary actions to assure that those legal mandates, which are instrumental to OCC's effectiveness as an investigative, fact-finding and disciplinary enforcement agency, are fulfilled.

In reviewing the OCC's casework for year 2001, then, it should be kept in mind that the extraordinarily high frequency of noncompliance with OCC investigative jurisdiction, by means of some commanding officers not timely serving and assuring return of MRFs, not timely serving notices to appear for OCC interviews, and by means of some officers not responding to MRFs and not appearing for interviews as ordered, or not being ready to proceed (which record of non-compliance was carefully and factually documented in OCC's 88 "Blue Folders" sent to SFPD during 2001) made timely, complete investigation of complaints by OCC all the more difficult than usual. Despite these obstacles outside OCC's immediate control, created by administrative misconduct of SFPD officers towards OCC in violation of DGO 2.04, nevertheless, OCC completed full investigation of most of its caseload, and achieved an all-time high sustained case total number and rate.

During 2001, OCC presented 84 sustained cases for disciplinary action at Chief's level that were decided by the Chief's designee. The person serving as Chief's designee was ordinarily then-Assistant Chief, now SFPD's Chief, Prentice E. Sanders. Of those 84 sustained cases presented at Chief's level by OCC on their merits, Chief Sanders and other Chief's-level designees upheld OCC's sustained findings, in whole or part, and imposed discipline in 81 cases (96.4%). The degree of affirmation of OCC's sustained findings by Chief Sanders et al. was comparable to year 2000, in which SFPD upheld OCC sustained findings and imposed discipline in 89 of 96 cases presented on their merits (92.7%).

SFPD determined not to proceed ("No Further Action") in 25 OCC sustained cases, of which 12 involved officer retirements or resignations and 13 were concluded by SFPD to involve undue delay and/or non-compliance by Management Control Division of SFPD, or OCC, or both, with the statute of limitations contained in California Government Code section 3304(d). Working both within its own operations and with SFPD Management Control Division's commanding officer, Lieutenant John Hennessey, and his staff, OCC aggressively sought to reduce the number and percentage of OCC sustained cases jeopardized or precluded from moving to disciplinary action by considerations or arguments of untimeliness. The number of OCC sustained complaints at Chief's level during 2001 sacrificed to purported untimeliness was 13, a number equal to the number lost to purported untimeliness during year 2000.

The failure to reduce this number during 2001 appears, in part, to have been due to ambiguities and disagreements about the meaning of California Government Code section 3304(d)'s prohibitions and exceptions, none of which have yet been authoritatively judicially interpreted. Instead, the meaning of section 3304(d) as applied to San Francisco's police discipline system is currently being contested in a series of legal actions, including an appeal in San Francisco Police Officers Association v. City and County of San Francisco, Case #324-635 (1st Div., District Court of Appeal, State of California). In the meanwhile, as it began to do in 1998 and has steadily continued to do since 1998, OCC worked energetically during 2001 to bring down the number of OCC sustained cases that might be lost due to purported untimeliness of OCC's actions. It must be emphasized that OCC cannot control the untimeliness of actions, or the inaction, of any other party or agency involved in the police disciplinary process.

As an internal goal, OCC aimed to submit its sustained findings and investigative reports to SFPD's MCD within ten (10) months of receipt of the underlying civilian complaint, whenever practicable. This internal goal, although not legally mandated by state law nor by any Police Commission interpretation of state law, was designed to give SFPD sufficient time (to wit., 60 days, as set forth in DGO 2.04 III. A. 5. b.) to review and act upon submitted cases within one (1) year of filing of the underlying complaint whenever practicable. During 2001, the bulk of OCC's 144 sustained cases were submitted to SFPD's MCD within this internal goal period of ten (10) months from filing.

As demonstrated by the cases pending number at year's end and overall backlog reductions discussed at the top of this report, OCC's dedicated efforts to resolve cases timely during 2001 were successful overall. OCC personnel remain committed as a united team to investigate and close sustained cases efficiently, to reduce the number of cases sacrificed to arguments of untimeliness (insofar as the part of the problem that is within OCC's control is concerned), and to secure and abide by authoritative judicial interpretations of the meaning of section 3304(d)'s prohibitory language and its enumerated exceptions and allowances for reasonable extensions, as these become available through litigation. However, OCC must also emphasize, as it has emphasized in past reports, that the values of fairness, accuracy, completeness and thoroughness of investigation and review of proposed findings, which sometimes require extra time, must also be served.

During 2001, OCC's mediation program resulted in 9 mediations successfully completed, from a total of 39 new eligible cases. 27 complainants and 3 SFPD officers declined mediation. Mediation remains a sound method for resolving complaints stemming from communication problems and misunderstandings, where allegations of unnecessary force or other allegations underscoring the police-civilian power imbalance do not pertain. However, during 2001, OCC did not have the services of an employee dedicated to the mediation program, because of the Citywide "Special Assistants" controversy and the frozen vacancy in OCC's Policy & Outreach specialist position during that controversy (See Section II of this report, at p. 14). OCC employees Mary Ivas, Pat Grigerek, Jean Field and Donna Medley all strived to keep the mediation program functioning during this hiatus. It is planned and expected that, starting in winter 2002, OCC will be able to strengthen its mediation program, and win wider adherence to the method, particularly among complainants, with the continuing assistance of the Bar Association of San Francisco, which has generously screened and provided expert mediation personnel for OCC-referred cases since 1995.

In behalf of the Chief of SFPD, OCC filed new charges with the Police Commission alleging serious misconduct in a total of four (4) new cases naming a total of four (4) SFPD sworn members during 2001. As of the end of 2001, a total of nine (9) cases filed by OCC were pending with the Commission, including the four (4) new cases. No trials or hearings on the merits as to any OCC-forwarded case were afforded by the Police Commission nor by any Commission member sitting individually during 2001. On this subject, OCC respectfully but emphatically reiterates its suggestion, first made in OCC's 1998 Annual Report and repeated in OCC's 2000 Annual Report, that the Police Commission develop and adopt specific written rules aimed at advancing its case docket, including a rule fixing reasonable, concrete time limits for pretrial and hearing on the merits as to disciplinary charges filed with the Commission. In addition, OCC respectfully recommends that the Commission study and adopt rules to impose responsibility, including penalties such as fines where appropriate, upon any party or representative acting in violation of a Commissioner's order to appear and be ready for a pretrial or evidentiary hearing. As mentioned in prior years both by the OCC Director and by members of the Police Commission, such written rules would expedite and make more predictable the police disciplinary processes of the Commission and its members. These steps would benefit all who look to the Commission to act promptly to hear and resolve disciplinary charges, whether arising from OCC or SFPD/MCD sustained complaints.

II. OCC STAFF GROWTH/CHANGES

From September 11, 2001 through May 24, 2002, OCC's fulltime permanent Director (Mary Dunlap, who is the author of this report) was absent from OCC due to a diagnosis of and treatment for pancreatic cancer. During that 8-1/2 month period, OCC was managed with exceptional ability by a team of employees, including Chief Investigator Donna L. Medley and Attorneys Jean Field and Samara Marion. These individuals have been nominated by Director Dunlap for much-deserved City Managerial Excellence Awards for their extraordinary service. Jean Field received a well-earned promotion to a position of OCC Senior Attorney during this period. As reflected in other sections of this report, OCC staff's productivity, attention to duty, effectiveness and cooperativeness during 2001, including during the permanent Director's catastrophic illness leave, were exemplary.

For the third calendar year, 2001 saw OCC substantially accomplish full staffing of the line (#8124) investigator position as defined by the City Charter-mandated ratio of one (1) OCC line investigator for every one hundred-fifty (150) sworn SFPD members. OCC had 16 investigators on staff during most of year 2001, relative to an approximate SFPD sworn force of 2300-2400 members.

In mid-2001, OCC's Policy & Outreach Specialist, River Abeje, resigned for personal and family reasons. Ms. Abeje prodigiously researched and wrote policy recommendations to SFPD during her OCC tenure. Those recommendations, with a host of others presented and pending prior to Ms. Abeje's tenure, were substantially and generally accepted by SFPD via then-Assistant Chief Sanders, during a series of ten (10) meetings with OCC Director Dunlap and others, facilitated by then-OCC liaison Police Commissioner Connie Perry, during late 1999 and early 2000.

Because of a Citywide reclassification mandate as to "Special Assistant" positions starting in 2001, OCC was prohibited from filling its Policy & Outreach Specialist position during FY '01-'02. Hence, during 2001, OCC was not able to initiate research, writing and advocacy as to any new policy recommendations, nor to do oversight as to SFPD's implementation of the more than two dozen OCC recommendations substantially agreed to by SFPD during 2000-2001.

Thankfully, as of mid-2002, OCC has succeeded in causing its one "Special Assistant" position to be reclassified to an OCC Senior Attorney position. OCC Attorney Samara Marion shall be promoted to the OCC Senior Attorney position, taking responsibility for policy and training recommendations, starting in fall 2002. Ms. Marion brings an exceptional depth of experience and skill in civilian accountability and policing matters, from her practice of law both for the OCC in San Francisco and, for a decade, as a conflict public defender and initiator of police accountability measures in Santa Cruz, as well as Ms. Marion's advanced degree program work at Stanford Law School. OCC Senior Attorney Marion will address the several pending "Policy Failure" findings and complaints from OCC's caseload, by appropriate research, writing and advocacy, aiming to advance a new group of policy and training recommendations that will be transmitted by OCC to SFPD, and as necessary to the Police Commission, starting in later fall of 2002.

The policy and training recommendations work of OCC is Charter-mandated and highly important. This function enables OCC, SFPD and the Police Commission to utilize civilian complaints as a basis or means for learning institutional lessons larger and longer-term than can be accomplished by the necessarily individualized SFPD officer disciplinary process. As described by the renowned civilian accountability scholar, Professor Samuel Walker:

"In San Francisco, the Office of Citizen Complaints sends a steady stream of recommendations for policy changes to the police department. Through this policy review function, the OCC does not treat complaints as isolated incidents but uses them as a way of identifying underlying causes. The OCC has recommended policies on everything from crowd control to the proper techniques for arresting someone ... [using a] wheelchair."

-from "How to Make Cops Accountable, LAPD: Los Angeles can emulate other cities' systems", Los Angeles Times A14 (3/6/00).

Through the legal work of Senior Attorney Marion, emphasizing policy and training recommendations and community outreach, OCC expects to be able to renew its "steady stream of recommendations", as well as to review the progress of SFPD in implementing agreed-upon changes resulting from already accepted recommendations.

OCC continued during 2001 to benefit from the extraordinary productivity and effectiveness of its IS Business Analyst, Lorrie Tanioka. Working with OCC and the City's Department of Telecommunications and Information Systems ("DTIS"), Ms. Tanioka succeeded in building and implementing a state-of-the-art OCC complaint database. Special thanks for their efforts in OCC's highly successful, long-needed and much-awaited complaint database project also go to Bink Feldkamp and Albert Quock of DTIS, and to OCC Administrative team head, Linda Taylor. The new OCC database enables OCC to track cases with unparalleled efficiency, to more intelligently coordinate the various steps and stages of OCC's investigations and administrative litigation, and to provide both public statistical data and confidential reports more completely and promptly. Ms. Tanioka also oversaw the continuing project of OCC's new connectivity to SFPD's and other agencies' records, which authorized OCC personnel regularly acquire through the City's new E911 communications system. Finally, Ms. Tanioka worked closely and amicably with OCC staff to acquire and install new software and hardware, to maintain and improve OCC's Local Access Network ("LAN"), to troubleshoot PC workstation problems, to address ergonomics concerns, to provide OCC website report updating, to assist administrative staff in labor-saving word processing changes, and to train all staff in new database usage and other technological improvements. To the great credit of IS Business Analyst Tanioka, during 2001 OCC made exceptional progress in completing and advancing each of its several most vital IT/IS projects.

OCC continues to need two additional members for its administrative staff, including a Clerk/Typist and a Transcriber; the financial means to meet these staffing needs have been sought by OCC management in three consecutive proposed OCC budgets, since 1999. The need for a Transcriber is particularly pressing. However, because of City budget constraints, these needs will remain unmet during FY '02-'03; OCC management will continue to work with the City, and with the State of California (via POBAR/SB 90 claims), to secure the funds necessary to add to OCC administration. Meanwhile, OCC administrative team head Linda Taylor and her staff are to be commended for their unflagging efficiency, perseverance and skill in handling OCC's volumes of public and police reception, caseload administration and related functions.

Training as the primary means of achieving excellence remained a guiding theme for OCC personnel during 2001. OCC personnel attended hundreds of hours of relevant trainings on a myriad of subjects, including, where available and affordable, POST-approved trainings for investigative staff members. Throughout the year, OCC staff members embraced "continuing education", attending offerings in-house and in other City Departments, such as at the SFPD Regional Police Academy, as well as several afforded by outside agencies, such as the Defense Investigators Training Association's program on forensics, attended by Chief Investigator Medley in Tehachapi, California. In October 2001, OCC Senior Investigators Dennis Maxson and Cheri Toney traveled to Denver, Colorado, to attend the National Association of Civilian Oversight of Law Enforcement's ("NACOLE") annual conference, where Senior Investigator Toney made a formal presentation on the history and methods of OCC; these personnel then brought experiences and lessons from the NACOLE organization and its annual national conference home to other OCC staff.

OCC staff also provided education and training for others about OCC's structure and functions, via trainings at the SFPD Regional Police Academy, in school classrooms and community meetings, in other gatherings and consultations, and in response to numerous inquiries from the public. OCC also continued to be called upon by many sources, both within and outside the USA, to provide the benefit of its experience and perspectives as to civilian accountability of police. For two examples:

On June 26, 2001, Director Dunlap travelled to Cincinnati, Ohio, at the invitation and expense of the nonprofit organization, PolicyLink, based in Oakland, California, to provide a lecture about how SF's OCC works, and to brainstorm with law enforcement representatives and civilian accountability leaders from across the USA, to assist local police, city officials and community activists in Cincinnati in addressing that city's widely reported crisis stemming from police officers' shootings of fifteen (15) African-American males during a five (5)-year time period, culminating in riots that took place after an April 7, 2001 officer-involved shooting resulted in the death of Timothy Thomas. In advance of the Cincinnati meeting during 2001, PolicyLink extensively interviewed OCC Director Dunlap as part of its research for publication of a unique report entitled Community-Centered Policing: A Force for Change (Maya Harris West, principal author (2001) (available from PolicyLink National Office, 101 Broadway, Oakland CA. 94607, or online at www.policylink.org). PolicyLink's report documented the nature and means of effectiveness of SF's OCC, as one of several civilian accountability agencies surveyed. On April 12, 2002, the City of Cincinnati and its police department entered into a written agreement with the US Department of Justice, the American Civil Liberties Union, the Black United Front and the Cincinnati Fraternal Order of Police "...which established broad-based reforms within the Cincinnati Police Department (CPD)", G. Flint Taylor, "Cincinnati Police Reform Agreements Reached", in Police Misconduct and Civil Rights Law Report, vol. 7, no. 3, p. 25 (West Pub. Co. 5/02-6/02). Those agreed-upon reforms include detailed provisions for the development of a citizen complaint procedure, to be administered and overseen via a civilian review authority with co-operation by the CPD, including affording independent investigative and fact-finding powers to civilians, within the city of Cincinnati (pp. 28-34).

OCC has hosted many contingents of international visitors during its operations. In 2001, by invitations afforded through the International Diplomacy Council of San Francisco, OCC hosted two lively and mutually engaging brown-bag lunch sessions, to exchange ideas and experiences with Mr. Alexandre Sebastiao Andre, President of Party of the Youth Workers and Farmers/Peasants ("PAJOCA"), Secretary of the Human Rights Committee and Member of the Council of the Republic of Angola, Africa, and with Ms. Lucila Guerra Delgado, General Director of the Instituto Estatal de Seguridad Publica of Aguascalientes, Mexico. Both of these sessions were characterized by enthusiastic, engaged and well-informed participation by all those in attendance.

III. OCC PUBLIC CREDIBILITY AND COMMUNITY RELATIONS

In March 2001, the National Institute of Justice of the federal government issued a detailed report, authored by government researcher Peter Finn, which describes, compares and reviews mechanisms of civilian oversight of police in ten US cities and counties: Berkeley, California; Flint, Michigan; Minneapolis, Minnesota; Orange County, Florida; Portland, Oregon; Rochester, New York; St. Paul, Minnesota; San Francisco, California; Tucson, Arizona. Citizen Review of Police: Approaches & Implementation (NIJ 3/01) That report notes:

"The most unusual feature of San Francisco's oversight process is that an independent body in effect acts as the police department's internal affairs unit for citizen complaints about police misconduct." (p. 60)

San Francisco's OCC is indeed unusual, if not unique, among municipal agencies having responsibilities related to civilian complaints about police misconduct. As discussed in the NIJ report, in the PolicyLink report cited in Section II. above, and in the academic work of civilian oversight scholar Sam Walker, the civilian staff of SF's OCC is exceptionally responsible, by contrast to the staffs of other municipalities' oversight agencies, for independent investigation, fact-finding, making of disciplinary as well as policy and training recommendations, and legal advocacy designed to implement those findings and recommendations.

In effectuating those responsibilities, as has been stated in prior annual reports of OCC, the building of OCC's credibility and community relations is a delicate, professionally driven, day-by-day process. Fundamental to that credibility and to those community relations is OCC's capacity to fulfill its mission, "... to achieve accountability of every member of the San Francisco Police Department, in each and every rank, position and location, to all of the people in or of this City and County." (OCC Mission Statement, 7/29/96)

During 2001, OCC went about the daily business of maintaining its credibility and strengthening its community relations, by emphasizing its Charter-mandated function of promptly, fairly and impartially investigating civilian complaints about SFPD officer misconduct. As set forth in Section I. of this report, above, OCC succeeded admirably in that emphasis, setting record numbers of closures, sustained complaints, backlog reduction and reduction of complaints pending at year's end. What such statistics can never really show is the steady and everyday helpfulness, care and compassion that OCC staff members showed towards persons having business with OCC, including members of the public and police officers, while routing and responding to high volumes of phone calls, mail, emails and visitors, addressing individual concerns of complainants, officers and witnesses, gathering facts and records, performing investigative fieldwork, monitoring demonstrations, attending community meetings, and performing myriad related functions of the agency.

During 2001, OCC implemented a random by-mail survey to approximately 30 police officers and 30 complainants concerning "customer service". Survey forms were randomly sent with closure letters (notice of OCC findings) to all parties in closed cases during three separate weeks selected at random. The survey emphasized voluntary participation, inviting the survey party to choose either to respond by name or remain anonymous. It asked clear and specific questions, such as "Was/were the OCC staff member(s) who contacted you knowledgeable and skillful?", "Do you feel that you were professionally treated by OCC staff?" and the like, as well as asking each police officer participant to indicate whether the OCC findings were correct, incorrect, fair, unfair or "no comment". The survey asked all respondents to rate the overall quality of OCC's services, on a scale of 1 to 5, 1 being defined as "excellent" and 5 being "very poor". The OCC "customer service" survey was conducted during May and June of 2001.

This survey was undertaken in compliance with City law requiring every city agency to seek to gauge the quality of its customer service as perceived by those who might be deemed "customers". In OCC's case, because both officers and members of the public alike tend to vocalize dissatisfaction with OCC investigative findings as a matter of course (as experienced by OCC Investigators doing hundreds of case reviews with members of these groups over numerous years), and because the SF Police Officers Association maintains an adversary relationship with OCC and chronically foments criticism of OCC among its members (see "Cops Lash Back At Watchdog Agency", San Francisco Independent, pp. 1, 3 (12/30/97), describing a POA drive to have officers make written complaints about OCC staff), OCC management anticipated in the implementation of this survey that a certain amount of pure vituperation, unaccompanied by facts and examples, would result from inquiries about OCC services. However, it was decided by the OCC Director that a survey was obligatory, despite these variables, and might prove useful, particularly if specific feedback of a factual nature was provided. Each survey participant was encouraged to give, and was given space on the form to provide, details about his/her experiences with OCC in augmentation of each answer.

The results of OCC's 2001 "customer service" survey are summarized below. While the response rates were decent (40% for officers, 20% for civilians), the raw numbers of respondents were relatively small: 12 officers and 6 civilians. Among the officers responding, opinions of OCC's findings were as follows:

OCC findings "correct" and/or "fair": 6
OCC findings "incorrect" and/or "unfair": 4
OCC findings "no comment" or no response: 2

Asked for specifics about their opinions as to findings, three officers who believed OCC's findings were "incorrect" and/or "unfair" provided particular opinions: that OCC does not investigate complainants fully enough, that OCC should investigate officer "credibility" better, and that it is unfair for OCC to identify allegations from a complaint where the complainant did not do so. (As to the last of these opinions, it is noted for the public record that OCC has a legal power and responsibility to identify all allegations raised by a complaint, whether or not the complainant is able to do so. Banta v. City and County of San Francisco, Case No. 995031 (Order Sustaining Demurrer Without Leave To Amend (7/22/98)). While some SFPD officers believe, as reflected by one officer in the survey, that it is somehow unfair for OCC to "add" allegations that were not within the awareness of the complainant, OCC is guided by the fact that few if any civilians have detailed knowledge of SFPD's General Orders requirements for sworn members, particularly as to supervisory and command staff.)

Civilian complainants were asked, "Do you feel that you were fairly treated as a person by OCC staff?" The responses were as follows:

No: 2

One of the two "No" answers was accompanied by detail. That complainant claimed that he was treated unfairly because OCC refused to provide copies of officers' investigative statements to him. (Again, for the sake of the public record, OCC has been legally advised that it is prohibited by state law from providing to complainants the investigative statements to OCC from officers, except where compelled by court orders resulting from motions made in judicially governed discovery processes; OCC staff regularly explain this legal fact to complainants).

The questionnaire asked officer respondents, "Do you feel that you were professionally treated by OCC staff?" The responses were:

Yes: 3

No: 5

Don't Know/Not Applicable/No Response: 4

Of those giving a "No" response, one officer added, "They are always rude!" (emphasis in original), and one officer stated, "OCC seems to know so much about police work, maybe they should switch roles w/ us and try it. & we will generate complaints on them!".

The overall ratings of OCC services were as follows:

- 1 (excellent): 1 complainant
- 2 (good): 2 complainants, 5 officers
- 3 (competent): 0
- 4 (poor): 1 complainant, 4 officers
- 5 (very poor): 1 complainant, 1 officer

In addition, two officers volunteered numbers outside the scale, apparently to signify "very poor" (given other comments), to wit., a "0" and a "10", and one complainant rated each category very poor but then circled "1" as his overall rating ("excellent"), which was inconsistent with each of his answers to the rest of the survey, suggesting he probably meant "5" (very poor).

Among the respondents providing positive feedback, the words "professional", "courteous", "thorough" and "helpful" were used by both civilian and police respondents to describe the work of OCC staff members.

Overall, the OCC "customer service" survey results are of limited value to OCC management and staff. Mainly, they tend to confirm knowledge already available: as OCC management and personnel were and are already keenly aware, there is a highly polarized reaction to OCC's existence and functions among some (and only some) police officers, which was reflected in the respondent officers' survey answers, and there is a similarly polarized reaction among some (and only some) civilians, which was reflected in the respondent civilians' survey answers.

In this annual report, OCC has for the sixth consecutive year provided statistics as to the demographic make-up of the OCC complainant population (See table, "Complainants by Selected Demographic Characteristics", January 2001-December 2001, in attachments to this report). As in 1996-1999, male complainants outnumber female complainants by about 2-to-1, and most complainants are between ages 20 and 40. African-American complainants appear at roughly three (3) times their rate in the San Francisco population (32.6% of OCC complainants in 2001 were African-American), while Asian-American and Latino/a/Hispanic complainants appear at less than their rates in the San Francisco population (8.0% of OCC complainants identified as Asian-American and 10.9% of complainants identified as Latino/a/Hispanic during 2001). The anticipated data to be yielded from SFPD's data gathering as to race and other characteristics of persons stopped/detained by SFPD should assist OCC in interpreting these complainant patterns.

A survey of all OCC complaints filed during 2001 establishes the following numbers of complaints raising allegations of discrimination or selective enforcement of the law against SFPD members (with the comparable total for year 2000 in parentheses after the total for 2001):

Racial, color, ethnicity and national origin
discrimination, not including racial slurs: 71 (73)
Racial slurs: 37 (39)
Gender discrimination, not including slurs: 5 (3)

Sexual orientation discrimination, not including
slurs: 2 (3)
Gender identity discrimination, not including
slurs: 0 (3)
Sexual slurs: 29 (28)
Homelessness discrimination: 5 (10)
Mental health discrimination: 7 (1)
Disability discrimination: 5 (1)
Age discrimination: 2 (not available)
Religion discrimination: 1 (not available)

During 2001, OCC retained its policy and practice of recommending that any sustained complaint of discriminatory law enforcement or use of slurs/epithets be heard by the Police Commission, rather than at Chief's level. As recently documented in Driving While Black or Brown, The California DWB Report: A Report From the Highways, Trenches and Halls of Power in California (American Civil Liberties Union Foundation of Northern California, Michelle Alexander, ed. (2002)), racial profiling and other discriminatory law enforcement practices cause harm to individuals and communities, and undermine respect for police. OCC remains committed to working with SFPD and the Police Commission to address complaints of discriminatory policing. OCC's part in this work will continue to be: affording full, fair and impartial investigation of allegations of discrimination; assuring administrative prosecution of officers where complaints of discrimination are sustained by OCC; and, making policy and training recommendations to improve SFPD's responses to issues and concerns about discrimination in policing.

IV. CONCLUSION

Year 2001 witnessed progress in and by OCC on many important fronts. As to caseload, OCC reduced backlog and case pending numbers to record low levels, maintained high rates of allegations identified and of complaints fully investigated, achieved an all-time high number and rate of sustained cases, and accomplished a 96.4% rate of affirmance of sustained complaints decided on their merits at SFPD Chief's level. Staffing remained substantially full and stable in most positions, and staff trainings were wide, varied and plentiful. OCC's complaint database project (first begun in 1996) went "up", and OCC's other major IT/IS projects, including E911 connectivity and LAN upgrades, were materially advanced. OCC provided open accounts about its history and experiences, strengths and weaknesses to outside researchers, such as the National Institute of Justice and PolicyLink, enriching first-of-their-kind nationally published reports about civilian accountability. Maintaining an open door to mutually beneficial exchanges, OCC welcomed visitors from around the world. The life-threatening cancer fight of Director Dunlap brought out more of the best in everyone at OCC, as Chief Investigator Medley and Attorneys Field and Marion provided award-calibre interim management at the top, and as investigative and administrative personnel moved 336 cases (including 42 sustained complaints) to closure in the final quarter of calendar 2001.

OCC also suffered setbacks in 2001. The vacancy in and the subsequent freeze against filling OCC's only "Special Assistant" position meant a loss of a year's momentum and productivity in developing and proposing policy and training recommendations to SFPD, and in advancing contested recommendations for Police Commission consideration, and in oversight as to the extent of SFPD's implementation of agreed-upon recommendations from prior years, as well as creating staffing problems as to OCC's mediation program. An unprecedented volume of incidents of officer (including commanding officer) non-compliance with the basic and instrumental tools of OCC's investigations, to wit., notices to interview and Member Response Forms and services of same, resulted in a three-fold increase in "Blue Folders" from OCC to SFPD (from 27 in 2000 to 88 in 2001). That deluge of "Blue Folders", which should have resulted in unbiased investigation and application of DGO 2.04 to easily discovered facts, and, based on experience from 2000 and prior years, in disciplinary action by SFPD in almost all documented cases (as in 2000, where 27 of 28 "Blue Folders" forwarded by OCC resulted in sustained findings and disciplinary action by SFPD), instead resulted in a failure by SFPD to timely investigate the allegations and to apply DGO 2.04 fairly and consistently to the presented evidence, and in the consequent escape of several dozen officers from accountability for their documented violations of DGO 2.04, in 31 of 51 "Blue Folder" cases closed by SFPD.

A total of 13 OCC-generated sustained complaints were sacrificed to considerations of untimeliness (the same total number as were lost to arguments of untimeliness at Chief's level in 2000), attributed to nonconformance by OCC, by Management Control Division, or both with Government Code section 3304(d), during 2001. Authoritative judicial interpretation of the statute of limitations contained in section 3304(d) remained elusive; in 2001-2002, an appeal, a petition for mandamus and several motions to dismiss cases before the Police Commission under 3304(d) have lined up in or are headed for civil litigation. While OCC strived to hit a self-imposed interior target of 10 months for completion and forwarding to MCD of sustained complaints wherever practicable, the actual target, consisting of the overarching meaning of 3304(d) as applied to SF's OCC and Police Department, remained mobile in fact and obscured in law.

In a way, both the progress and the setbacks of 2001 for OCC offer a single lesson, already suggested by the provisions of City Charter section 4.127 that require cooperation of SFPD and other City agencies with OCC. OCC can be fairly if unevenly effective in performing its given legal responsibilities and in meeting self-imposed goals as a discrete municipal agency, but OCC can be maximally effective only if it enjoys the full and good faith assistance and intelligent cooperation of other City agencies, most particularly of SFPD. The City Charter, as implemented by DGO 2.04, specifically emphasizes the cooperation of the Chief and command staff of SFPD with OCC, and, under the Chief's direction and the DGOs, compliance of rank-and-file membership of SFPD with OCC's investigations, all to be responsibly overseen and enforced by the SF Police Commission.

It is that maximum effectiveness, available only through SFPD's cooperation at all ranks with the prescribed jurisdiction and legal authority of OCC, overseen and enforced by the Police Commission wherever necessary, that OCC will be seeking in the remainder of 2002 and beyond. OCC cannot responsibly settle for less.

The recent advancement of two new and continuing leaders in SFPD to the top of the Department is auspicious and promising for OCC in its quest for maximum effectiveness through SFPD cooperation. By the move to the Chief's position of former Assistant Chief Prentice E. Sanders, who served as the Chief's designee for officer discipline from 1996 through mid-2002, and by the move to the position of Assistant Chief of former Captain Alex E. Fagan, who will serve as the Chief's designee to implement and enforce discipline at Chief's level, OCC anticipates a consistent message and practice of obedience to the Department's General Orders, including unbiased enforcement of DGO 2.04's prescribed responsibilities by all officers, at all ranks, and a recommitment to full assistance to and cooperation with OCC in the performance of its legal responsibilities, by every member of SFPD.

In OCC's experience, Chiefs Sanders and Fagan already understand and respect OCC's mission: universal accountability of all SFPD members, of every rank and assignment, to the people and communities comprising the San Francisco public. There is a direct and positive relationship between OCC's effectiveness and the effectiveness of SFPD, as both of these chosen leaders know well. Accordingly, OCC looks forward to working with Chiefs Sanders and Fagan, and, as necessary and appropriate, with the Police Commission members, including particularly OCC's liaison, Police Commissioner Victor Makras, to maximize OCC's ability to perform its mission by means of cooperation of SFPD and its members, and to reinforce the direct and positive relationship between OCC's effectiveness and SFPD's effectiveness, as is legally mandated by the City Charter of San Francisco.

Respectfully submitted,

MARY C. DUNLAP, Director
Office of Citizen Complaints

DEFINITIONS OF ALLEGATIONS

Unnecessary Force (UF): Any use of force that exceeds the level of force reasonably needed to perform a necessary police action.

Unwarranted Action (UA): An act or action not necessitated by circumstances or which does not effect a legitimate police purpose.

Conduct Reflecting Discredit (CRD): An act or action, which by its nature, reflects badly on the Department and undermines public confidence.

Neglect of Duty (ND): Failure to take action when some action is required under the applicable laws and regulations.

Racial Slur (RS): Behavior or use of language meant to belittle or defame because of race or ethnicity.

Sexual Slur (SS): Behavior or use of language meant to belittle or defame because of sex or sexual orientation.

Discourtesy (D): Behavior or language commonly known to cause offense, including the use of profanity.

DEFINITIONS OF FINDINGS

Sustained (S): A preponderance of the evidence proved that the conduct complained of did occur, and that using as a standard the applicable regulations of the Department, the conduct was improper.

Not Sustained (NS): The investigation failed to disclose sufficient evidence to either prove, or disprove the allegation made in the complaint.

Proper Conduct (PC): The evidence proved that the acts, which provided the basis for the allegations, occurred; however, such acts were justified, lawful, and proper.

Unfounded (U): The evidence proved that the acts alleged in the complaint did not occur, or that the named member was not involved in the acts alleged.

Policy Failure (PF): The evidence proved that the act by the member was justified by Departmental policy, procedure, or regulation; however, the OCC recommends a change in the particular policy, procedure, or regulation.

Supervision Failure (SF): The evidence proved that the action complained of was the result of inadequate supervision when viewed in light of applicable law; training; and Departmental policy and procedure.

Training Failure (TF): The evidence proved that the action complained of was the result of inadequate or inappropriate training; or a absence of training when viewed in light of Departmental policy and procedure.

Information Only (IO): The evidence proved that the action complained of did not involve a sworn member of the Department; or that the action described was so obviously imaginary that their occurrence is not admissible by any competent authority. Information Only allegations are not counted as complaints against sworn members of the Department. Complaints against non-sworn employees of the Department are referred to Management Control Division. Complaints against employees of other agencies are referred to the appropriate agency.

No Finding (NF): The complainant failed to provide additional requested evidence, or the complainant requested a withdrawal of the complaint.

Mediated (M): By mutual agreement of the complainant and the accused member, the complaint was mediated and resolved in a non-disciplinary manner.

OFFICE OF CITIZEN COMPLAINTS

CITY AND COUNTY OF SAN FRANCISCO

Jean Field
Interim Director

February 28, 2007

To: The Honorable Gavin Newsom
Members, San Francisco Board of Supervisors
Members, San Francisco Police Commission
San Francisco Police Chief Heather Fong
Members of the San Francisco community

Enclosed please find the Office of Citizen Complaint's Annual Report for the year 2005. This is an abbreviated report, because it has been so long delayed. The majority of these statistics have been posted to the OCC web site (www.sfgov.org/occ) since June 2006, but this information was never formally presented to the Mayor, the Board of Supervisors, the Police Commission or the community.

It is clear that the OCC needs to do a much better job of informing the public about its accomplishments as well as its challenges. The Controller's Audit, issued in January 2007, emphasized that the agency's failure to publish its quarterly and annual reports undermined the agency's effectiveness. We recognize that the enclosed report, while it provides a basic snapshot of the agency's annual activity, does not provide sufficient information about the OCC's mission and structure. Nor does it adequately portray community concerns about the San Francisco Police Department, which are brought to our agency in the form of complaints. In the future, we hope to work on improving the quality and level of detail provided in these and other reports. In the meantime, however, we felt it was paramount to release the statistics for past years so that future statistical reports can be put into proper perspective.

CASELOAD

As the Comprehensive Statistical Report shows, in the year 2005, the OCC opened 881 cases, and closed 798. The failure to close as many cases as the agency opened contributed to a growing backlog of pending cases. As of December 2005, 431 cases were open and pending. That is a significant increase from the caseloads carried just a few years before – at the close of calendar year 2002, for example, there were only 263 cases pending.

That higher number of pending cases, in turn, acted to slow case closure time, because investigators are simultaneously working on higher numbers of cases. During the year 2005, there were 15 full-time line investigators, meaning that on average, each was assigned 58 new cases. The more cases assigned to each investigator, the higher likelihood that some of these cases experience gaps in active investigation. Those gaps, in turn, slowed closure timelines.

The Controller's report was justifiably critical of the OCC's failure to meet its Charter mandate of closing sustained cases within 9 months of filing. In 2005, only 38 percent of 71 sustained cases were closed within nine months. But the Controller's audit did not note the agency's performance on closing cases within one year. In 2005, of 71 sustained cases only two took more than one year to investigate. This number is lower than in 2004, in which 11 sustained cases were closed after one year.

The OCC successfully prioritized some of its major, complicated cases in order to minimize legal challenges. During 2005, no cases considered for Police Commission adjudication were dismissed because of missing the statute of limitations period. In addition, only five cases closed in 2005 were deemed by the Department to be barred from disciplinary action because it had inadequate time to review them and administer discipline in a timely way. Five cases is of course five cases too many, but it represents a decrease from prior years.

Timely case closure is just as important for cases that do not have sustained allegations. Complainants, officers and the Department deserve prompt resolution of all allegations of misconduct. And for all 798 cases closed in 2005 -- including those with findings of sustained as well as proper conduct, not sustained, etc. -- 72 percent closed within nine months of opening. This figure is comparable to the 73 percent of all cases closed within 9 months in 2004. And for 2005, 92 percent of all closed cases were closed within a year. Again -- it's not good enough, but it does show that in the majority of cases, the OCC was completing the vast majority of its investigations in a timely manner.

Although they represented only 8 percent of the 2005 closures, cases with sustained finding typically take longer to close. Sustained cases typically involve more investigative steps, and require a more complex report be written to facilitate the Chief's review. The challenge, clearly, is to ensure that cases with potentially sustained findings are identified earlier in the investigation, and monitored so that they do not encounter delays. Some of the recommendations outlined in the Controller's audit, as well as more aggressive supervision of case timelines, should help meet these goals.

OTHER PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS

Mediation Program: In 2005, the OCC revitalized its mediation program, which allows complainants and officers to sit together with professional mediators to craft a nondisciplinary resolution to complaints. The number of cases successfully mediated quadrupled, from 6 in 2004 to 25 in 2005. This program has attracted national attention, and significant resources -- in the form of a full-time investigator who spent much of his time coordinating the program -- were dedicated to bringing this program closer to its potential.

Legal Work: In 2005, the OCC's legal team consists of two lawyers and a part-time policy analyst. One of the primary duties of the legal team is to present misconduct cases to the Police Commission. Under the City Charter, only the Police Commission has the authority to administer suspensions of greater than 10 days or to terminate a police officer who has been found to have committed misconduct.

During 2005, the OCC presented evidence to the Police Commission against three San Francisco police officers in separate disciplinary hearings. The charges ranged from conduct reflecting discredit for inappropriate behavior, to misuse of Department computers and inaccurate reporting. The Commission reviewed evidence, heard testimony from witnesses, and the Accused Officers mounted a defense against the charges of misconduct. In one case, the officer was terminated by a vote of the Police Commission. In each of the other two cases, the officer retired or resigned voluntarily after the hearing began, but prior to the imposition of discipline.

The Police Commission held open hearings in those cases. Members of the public were able to obtain copies of the charges and attend the hearings and arguments, and the results of the hearings were discussed in the press. However, in August of 2006, the California Supreme Court issued a decision clarifying the application of Penal Code section 832.7, which makes peace officer personnel records confidential. In light of that decision, OCC charges filed with the Police Commission are now confidential and Police Commission hearings resulting from those charges are closed to the public unless the individual officer waives his or her right to confidentiality. Although more of the OCC's work will now be done behind closed doors, the OCC will nonetheless continue to conduct full and fair investigations, and, when it files charges, to advocate zealously for appropriate disposition of those charges.

Policy Work

Also in 2005, the OCC continued its Charter-mandated policy work. Throughout the first quarter of 2005, the OCC and the San Francisco Youth Commission engaged in lengthy negotiations with SFPD to revise the Department General Order 7.01, the Department's written protocol for interacting with youth and children. As a result of these negotiations, the Department agreed to provide greater protections for children and youth. Protections include audiotaping all juvenile interrogations and permitting parents to be present during juvenile interrogations. The OCC awaits the Department's introduction of these revisions to the Police Commission for formal adoption.

In addition, the OCC advocated for greater review and accountability concerning the Department's investigative process of officer-involved shootings. In Police Commission hearings concerning the creation of a Firearm Discharge Review Board, the OCC argued that its Director should sit on the Board to provide civilian participation during the Department's review of shooting cases. The OCC also argued that officers involved in shootings should be relieved of street duty for at least two weeks based on best practice standards. Ultimately, the Commission created a Firearm Discharge Review Board that includes both the OCC Director and a member of the Police Commission. The Commission also adopted provisions that require officers involved in shootings to be relieved of their regular assignment for a minimum of ten days.

In 2005 the OCC proposed that the Department adopt a written protocol for the investigation, review and reporting to the Police Commission of In-Custody deaths. The OCC recommended that in-custody death cases be subject to the same investigative timelines, administrative reassignment, reporting requirements and review board procedures that the Police Commission assigned in officer-involved shooting cases. Throughout negotiations in 2005, the OCC obtained the Department's agreement to adopt a written protocol and provided the Department a detailed draft protocol. The OCC continues to advocate for the establishment of a written In-Custody death protocol.

Other policy areas that the agency worked on in 2005 included: advocating the creation of clearer written guidelines for dealing with deaf, hard of hearing and Limited English Proficient individuals and training issues related to dangerous canines.

CONCLUSION

The enclosed statistical report, when read in conjunction with the Controller's audit, reveals an agency facing significant challenges managing its caseload effectively, particularly in the area of sustained cases. But it also shows an agency that was working to accomplish its core mission of thoroughly and fairly investigating complaints of police misconduct. Ninety two percent of the cases closed in 2005 were closed within a year of filing. In addition, 2005 contained significant achievements in mediation, policy work and prosecution of Police Commission cases.

The Controller's audit pointed out specific and general failures of leadership that resulted in poor employee morale and lowered effectiveness. The audit did not adequately acknowledge the many members of the OCC staff who have worked tirelessly to fulfill the responsibility placed upon them by members of the community and the Department. I trust that with the Commission's support, and incoming new leadership of the agency, we will work to overcome the legacy of those past deficiencies, and steer the OCC to its full potential as one of the nation's strongest models of civilian oversight.

Respectfully submitted,

Jean Field
Interim OCC Director

OCC MEDIATION PROGRAM FOR 2005

The OCC Mediation Program experienced a positive surge in both new eligible cases referred for mediation and cases mediated in 2005, under the auspice of newly appointed Mediation Coordinator Mark Scafidi. While new eligible cases more than trebled in number, more significantly, nearly one-half of the fifty-one cases submitted for mediation were successfully mediated (see graph below). The OCC Mediation Program anticipates a continued trend of growth due to greater scrutiny of case eligibility at the intake phase, maintaining the current level of case development, and greater awareness and education of civilians and police officers alike as to the benefits of mediating a civilian's complaint. The complainants and officers participating in the mediation process have overwhelmingly favored its use in resolving citizens' complaints. Two examples of such complaints are represented in the examples below*.

	2004	2005
New Eligible Cases	16	51
Refused by Complainant	12	15
Refused by Officer	0	7
Mediations Pending	7	3
Cases Mediated	6	25
Complaints Withdrawn	--	2

Example – Case #1

A motorist was cited for reportedly failing to yield to a pedestrian in the crosswalk. The motorist filed a complaint, claiming the traffic enforcement operation was a sham to raise city revenue. During mediation, the officers explained fully their pedestrian law enforcement program, yet demonstrated their understanding of the complainant's frustration. The complainant deemed the officers to be "real gentleman," as the parties left mediation to have coffee together and discuss the complainant's joining the pedestrian safety program.

Example – Case #2

Officers who sought a strong-arm robbery suspect generally fitting the complainant's description forcefully detained the complainant, an African-American male. The complainant believed he was the victim of racial profiling. During mediation, the officers explained the urgency in apprehending the suspect and, regrettably, the lack of time to explain their actions to the complainant as the police action occurred. The complainant better understood the officers' abrupt actions and accepted their apology.

* Note: The mediation participants waived confidentiality as to the appearance of the above mediation outcomes in this report.

Re: Office of Citizen Complaints 2007 Annual Statistical Report

INTRODUCTION

Enclosed please find the Office of Citizen Complaint's annual report for the year 2007. This is an abbreviated report due to the age of the statistics, and the fact that 90% of the events outlined in this report occurred prior to my tenure with the Office of Citizen Complaints. My tenure began on November 26, 2007. This annual report encompasses a transitional period in OCC's history. On January 24, 2007, the Office of the Controller's City Service Auditor released a highly critical performance audit of the OCC entitled, "Weak Case Management and Organizational Issues Degrade OCC's Performance." When I assumed the directorship of OCC, I committed to lead the office using modern management practices and professional case management.

ORGANIZATIONAL CHANGES

In 2007, OCC had three successive directors. After almost four years as OCC Executive Director, Kevin Allen resigned effective February of 2007. The Police Commission then appointed Managing Trial Counsel Jean Field as Interim Executive Director and after conducting a nationwide search appointed me as the permanent Executive Director effective November 26, 2007. Upon my appointment, Jean Field continued her role as Managing Trial Attorney and with Acting Chief Investigator Charles Gallman undertook the primary role of assisting in my orientation.

On October 29, 2007, the OCC relocated its offices from 480 Second Street to 25 Van Ness Avenue, Suite 700, San Francisco, CA. The move took several months of planning and OCC spent much of August and September preparing for the move to its new offices. Under the leadership of Chief Investigator Charles Gallman and Information Services Business Analyst Chris Wisniewski, the office staff worked with other city agencies to configure the office space in a manner that would enhance the OCC's productivity. In addition to planning for the physical move, the agency engaged in community outreach efforts to inform members of the community about the service the OCC provides as well as about the change of address.

INVESTIGATION OF CASES

In 2007, the OCC opened 954 cases and closed 893. The number of new cases, as well as the number of cases closed, was higher than those opened and closed in 2005 and 2006. While staff worked to address its caseload, at the close of 2007, there remained 10 cases from 2005, 51 cases from 2006 and 408 cases from 2007 for a total of 469 pending cases. This was the highest number of pending cases at year's end since 1999.

The OCC operated with 12 investigators with an average caseload of 34 cases. This was more than double the average caseload of 16 cases per investigators in comparable civilian oversight of law enforcement agencies in Albuquerque, New Mexico, New York, New York and Los Angeles, California. In prior years it had operated with as many as 15 investigators.

While the OCC continued closing cases at an accelerated rate, insufficient staffing with the accompanying higher caseload had a negative impact on the time it took to investigate a case to completion and potentially on the rate of sustained findings of misconduct. For example, while 64% of OCC cases closed in 2007 were investigated within six months, 36% of the 48 cases sustained in 2007 took more than nine months to investigate. The rate of sustained cases, too, was down overall from previous years. OCC sustained 61 cases in 2006 and 71 cases in 2005. The sustain rate was 5% in 2007, 7% in 2006 and 9% in 2005. The OCC's historical sustain rate, calculated since 1993 has hovered around 9%. Heavy investigator caseload – the unavoidable result of insufficient staffing – has been shown to negatively impact the rate of sustained findings.

OTHER PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS

Mediation Program: In January 2007, the OCC hired its first Mediation/Outreach coordinator. As a result of this focused position and buy in from the San Francisco Police Officers Association, in 2007 successful mediations grew to 47, a record high for the OCC and more than double the 20 in 2006. The OCC's mediation program has attracted national attention. In 2005, the OCC revitalized its mediation program, which allows complainants and officers to sit together with a professional mediator to craft a nondisciplinary resolution to complaints. The number of cases successfully mediated in 2005 quadrupled, from 6 to 2004 to 25 in 2005. The number of mediations in 2006 fell to 20.

Legal Work: In 2007, the OCC's legal team consisted of two full-time attorneys, a part-time Policy Analyst, and a Mediation Coordinator. However, due to the agency's transition, the senior attorney acted as the Interim Director of the OCC through November 26, 2007 when the new Director was hired. Additionally, the other trial attorney was away on parenting leave for several months at the end of the year.

One of the primary duties of the legal team is to present misconduct cases to the Police Chief when officers object to proposed discipline of 10-days suspension or less, as well as to the Police Commission. Under the City Charter, matters involving suspensions beyond 10-days up through termination from employment due to misconduct are under the exclusive authority of the Police Commission.

During 2007, the OCC presented evidence to the Police Commission against nine San Francisco police officers in separate discipline cases. Four cases involved full evidentiary hearings, two were presented in four days and two others took 13 days to present. At the hearings, the Commission reviewed evidence, heard testimony from witnesses, and the officers mounted their defenses against the charges of misconduct. Of the nine Commission cases adjudicated in 2007, five resulted in the officers agreeing to Stipulated Dispositions of discipline in the form of suspensions of 150 (2 cases), 60, 10 and 5 days, and 4 cases resulted in dismissed charges.

Policy Work: In 2007, the OCC continued its Charter-mandated policy work, focusing primarily in four key areas: 1) language access services; 2) police interactions with juveniles; 3) officer-involved shooting protocols concerning victim's families and disclosure of information; and 4) in-custody death protocols.

Department General Order 5.20 – Language Access Services for Limited English Proficient (LEP) Persons

The OCC collaborated with the San Francisco Police Department and a coalition of representatives from numerous community organizations, city agencies, and commissions and met with the Department regularly to implement a written, comprehensive language access protocol for the Department that establishes police protocols for providing interpreter and translation services to Limited English Proficient (LEP) persons. In drafting the protocol, in addition to working with the aforementioned coalition, the OCC solicited input from the Philadelphia Police Department as well as the Civil Rights Director of the Department of Justice, who commended the OCC, the Department and our Language Access Coalition for the progress on this DGO. The OCC and the Department presented this DGO to the Police Commission and it was approved on October 17, 2007.

Subsequent to its passage, as part of its policy work to develop police training and public education materials on Department General Order 5.20, the OCC continued to meet with the Department and the Language Access Coalition to develop training scenarios to accompany the implementation of this DGO including a training bulletin, reference guide, training video, and a Chief's message.

Department General Order 7.01 – Juveniles

In 2007, the OCC proposed extensive revisions to Department General Order 7.01, a protocol for police interactions with juveniles. In negotiating these revisions with the Department, the OCC collaborated with juvenile justice shareholders including the Youth Commission, Youth Law Center, Legal Services for Children, Center for Juvenile and Criminal Justice, La Raza Legal Central, Asian Law Caucus, and Community Assessment and Referral Center and solicited input from the San Francisco Mayor's Office on Criminal Justice and Chief Siffermann from the Juvenile Probation Department. These recommendations significantly increase protections to juveniles by permitting parents to be present during interrogations, mandate the tape recording of all juvenile interrogations, require notification to parents when juveniles are detained, and require that juveniles be brought to juvenile-centered facilities such as the Community Assessment and Referral Center (CARC) and the Juvenile Justice Center instead of district stations where juveniles are exposed to adult lock-up facilities and adult suspects.

Officer-Involved Shooting Protocols Concerning Victim's Families and Disclosure of Information (DGOs 8.04, 3.16 and 8.09.)

In 2007, the OCC made recommendations concerning providing a liaison to families whose members have been killed during an officer-involved shooting, timely disclosure of information, including the incident report, nature of statements to the press concerning the incident, and providing the public information about the officer-involved shooting investigative process. The Police Commission adopted these OCC policy recommendations and the OCC is working to implement these recommendations in part through revisions to DGOs 8.04, 3.16 and 8.09. The California Supreme Court decision in Copley Press, Inc. v. Superior Court had an impact on the progress of these negotiations and the Department and the OCC continue working on these DGOs.

Department General Order 8.12 – In Custody Deaths

DGO 8.12 concerns policy, procedures and a review process for in-custody deaths. In 2005, when the Police Commission passed Department General Orders concerning officer-involved shootings and firearm discharges, the Commission expressed interest in establishing a similar review process for in-custody deaths. In 2007, the OCC renewed discussions with the Department and worked toward reaching agreement concerning the provisions of a DGO concerning in-custody deaths.

Additional Policy Recommendations

In 2007, the OCC made the following additional policy recommendations to enhance police-community relations: 1) posting San Francisco Police Department general orders on their public website as do several other police departments; 2) permitting the firearm discharge review board to review discharges and deaths caused by extended range impact weapons; 3) codifying San Francisco Police Department's practice of tape recording interrogations; and 4) developing a protocol for confirming the validity of a bench warrant before making an arrest. Our agency also proposed two recommendations concerning parking and traffic enforcement issues.

CONCLUSION

The enclosed statistical report, when read in conjunction with the Controller's audit, reveals that in 2007 the OCC faced significant challenges managing its caseload effectively both in pending cases and sustained cases. But it also shows an agency with inadequate resources that was working to accomplish its core mission of thoroughly and fairly investigating complaints of police misconduct and making policy recommendations on police practices. Eighty-seven percent of cases closed in 2007 were closed within a year of filing. In addition, 2007 contained significant achievements in mediation, policy work and prosecution of Police Commission cases.

The Controller's audit pointed out specific and general failures of leadership that resulted in poor employee morale and lowered effectiveness. When I joined the staff on November 26, 2007, I shared with staff my vision of leading the best civilian oversight agency in the United States with continued dedication to its core mission of investigating civilian complaints in a fair, unbiased and timely manner and to make policy recommendations regarding police policies and practices. To achieve that goal of best in class, I emphasized the need for excellent case management and professional staff management. The 2008 annual report will set forth whether the vision was achieved.

Re: Office of Citizen Complaints 2008 Annual Statistical Report

I. INTRODUCTION

Enclosed is the Office of Citizen Complaint's 2008 Annual Statistical Report. The OCC had an extremely productive year, eliminating a three-year-old backlog of old cases and closing more cases than it opened. The OCC created and implemented its first Community Outreach Strategic Plan and it conducted a record number of mediations; conducting fifty percent more mediations than the previous year. The OCC also began a journey with its new Director, Joyce M. Hicks, who began her tenure on November 26, 2007. The OCC also adopted performance plans for its thirty-five member staff and was successful in filling several vacant positions across the organization and providing training to both its new and veteran employees.

II. MISSION OF THE OFFICE OF CITIZEN COMPLAINTS

The mission of the Office of Citizen Complaints is to promptly, fairly and impartially investigate complaints against San Francisco police officers and make policy recommendations concerning police practices.

III. HISTORY AND FUNCTIONS OF THE OFFICE OF CITIZEN COMPLAINTS

The OCC first became staffed and began its operations in 1983. It was created by a voter initiated charter amendment that was adopted on November 2, 1982. By subsequent charter amendments the OCC is guaranteed minimum staffing of one investigator for every 150 police officers and the OCC Director may file charges with the Police Commission after meeting and conferring with the Police Chief. (San Francisco City Charter, Article IV, section 4.127.) The OCC is a civilian-staffed local governmental agency that reports to the Police Commission. The Police Commission is a volunteer civilian body of seven (7) members, four (4) members nominated by the Mayor and three (3) members nominated by the Board of Supervisors. Each member must be confirmed by a majority of the Board of Supervisors. The Police Commission nominates the Director of the OCC and the Mayor appoints the Director subject to approval by the Board of Supervisors. The Police Commission holds the power to terminate the services of the OCC's Director. The Director of the OCC reports to the Police Commission at its weekly meetings. By Charter, the Police Commission holds the power to manage, organize and reorganize the OCC. In practice, these powers generally are exercised by the Police Commission through the OCC Director. Civilians who have never been police officers in San Francisco staff the Office of Citizen Complaints.

The OCC receives, investigates and makes findings on civilian complaints of on-duty misconduct (including acts and omissions) by sworn members of the San Francisco Police Department. Where the OCC sustains one or more allegations against one or more officers in a given case, the case can either go to the Chief of Police or to the Police Commission. The factors governing whether the Police Commission hears a case that has been sustained by the OCC include: severity of misconduct and of potential discipline; complexity of issues presented; degree of public interest in the matter and OCC recommendation to the Chief of Police as to forum (Chief or Commission). The Chief of Police either refers the case to the Commission, or hears it directly. The Chief of Police has disciplinary power to issue up to a 10-day suspension; the Commission holds all greater disciplinary power, including the power to hear appeals from the Chief's disciplinary decisions. Both the Chief and the OCC Director (after conferring with the Chief) may file charges of officer misconduct with the Commission.

The Office of Citizen Complaints' staff speaks a variety of languages including French, Spanish, Tagalog, Russian, Mandarin, Cantonese and Burmese. If complainants speak a language other than those languages spoken by OCC staff, the OCC staff will provide an interpreter free of charge.

Consistent with the Peace Officers' Bill of Rights, officers accused by complaints filed with the OCC receive notice of allegations against them, an opportunity to be heard by the OCC and to be represented during the investigative process, and notice of the outcome of the OCC's process. Officers are required by local law to appear upon written notice from the OCC, and if they fail to appear without sufficient cause, they are subject to discipline. If a complaint is sustained against an officer by the OCC, the officer is served with written charges and the officer is provided a hearing before either the Chief or the Commission.

By City Charter, the OCC is required to receive every complaint of alleged police misconduct or improper performance made by a member of the public where the complaint involves one or more sworn San Francisco Police Department members. The practice has been for the OCC to limit its investigations to those complaints involving on-duty conduct or conduct under the color of authority. All complaints are investigated unless the allegations on their face show proper conduct or they are outside OCC's jurisdiction. Cases outside the OCC's jurisdiction are forwarded to proper authorities.

The OCC performs four distinct functions: (1) it investigates complaints and makes findings on those complaints; (2) it mediates complaints; (3) it analyzes police policies and practices; and (4) it performs community outreach. These functions were performed by a staff that reached thirty-five employees by the end of 2008. Pursuant to the Charter, none of these employees had ever served as employees of the San Francisco Police Department. The OCC was budgeted for an additional three positions for budget year 2008/2009: a line investigator, a senior investigator, and a senior clerk typist. Unfortunately, none of these positions was filled due to San Francisco's looming budget deficit. Furthermore, another vacant line investigator position was left vacant due to budget uncertainties. Thus the OCC closed 2008 with four vacant positions.

The OCC is comprised of eight functional units: Executive, Legal, Mediation and Outreach, Investigative, Policy Analysis, Information Services, Clerical and Accounting. The functions of each of these units will be more thoroughly described in latter sections of this report.

IV. ORGANIZATIONAL DEVELOPMENTS

On November 26, 2007, when I became the Director of the Office of Citizen Complaints, the department had been without a permanent executive director for nine months and was operating under the cloud of a highly critical audit issued on January 24, 2007 by the Audit Division of the San Francisco Controller's Office. The audit title, "Weak Case Management and Organizational Issues Degrade OCC's Performance" captured the issues with which beset the OCC. However it failed to capture that there was a core of dedicated staff members who anxiously awaited more efficient resource allocation, full staffing and a leader who would institute modern management practices.

On November 26, 2007, we held our first staff meeting. I shared with staff my vision of leading the best civilian oversight agency in the United States. This model agency would show deep dedication to fulfill its core mission of investigating civilian complaints of police misconduct in a fair, unbiased and timely manner and of making policy recommendations about police policies and practices. To achieve that goal of best in class, I emphasized the need for excellent case management and professional staff management. I concluded the meeting with the challenge that staff must engage in a shared vision. During December 2007 and January 2008, I conducted individual confidential interviews with each OCC staff member to receive a historical perspective on the office and to discuss moving the office forward.

In the first quarter, we began staff management initiatives by holding weekly management team meetings, holding a staff meeting and outlining a process for developing a staff performance planning and appraisal process. We also hired a Chief Trial Attorney, Ines Vargas Fraenkel, to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of the Interim Director and Chief Trial Attorney, Jean Field. Additionally, we submitted a budget that requested three new positions: a senior investigator, a line investigator and a senior clerk typist. The proposed $4,229,167 budget represented a 7% increase over the 2007-2008 $3,944,726 budget.

In the second quarter, we held a series of staff retreats, conducted training, engaged in strategic planning for case management and filled key staff vacancies. In the second quarter we also adopted performance plans for the investigators and for the new hires. We also hired Cecily Gray to fill the Trial Attorney vacancy created by the resignation of Trial Attorney Susan Leff. Additionally, Fiona Chan filled a newly added Senior Clerk Typist position specifically created to assist with website development and other information services functions. Pamela Thompson was hired to fill a newly created position, Executive Assistant to the Executive Director.

In the third quarter, we adopted performance plans for the remaining OCC employees. Additionally, in the third quarter we filled six vacant investigator positions, including the Chief Investigator position. After conducting a nationwide search, I appointed Charles Gallman, a twenty-year OCC investigator, to the Chief Investigator position. We also filled five of the six vacant line investigator positions. Collectively, the newly hired line investigators brought more than 50 years of law enforcement and social welfare investigation experience. The new hires were Roxanne Hayes, Candace Miles-Threatt, Samuel Torres and Gregory Underwood.

During the third quarter, the Office Training Committee chaired by Chief Investigator Gallman and including investigators Jayson Wechter and Karol Heppie, developed and implemented a comprehensive training program for the new hires and veteran employees that included presentations from in-house and San Francisco Police Department subject matter experts and the San Francisco Sheriff's Department. The training program also included tours of Northern Station, the Police Academy, the Hall of Justice, the Airport Bureau and the County Jail. Representatives from the Police Department's Narcotics Detail, Vice Crimes and Legal Divisions also provided orientations for the new hires and representatives from the Department of Emergency Management and Emergency Operations Office conducted training. Senior Investigator Edward McMahon trained all five new investigators on office procedures.

In the fourth quarter, Ellen Dolese filled a vacant investigator position. Staff focused on closing cases and on completing sustainable cases. Investigator Jayson Wechter, who is on the Board of the National Association for Civilian Oversight of Law Enforcement, and I both attended the NACOLE annual conference in Cincinnati, Ohio during this quarter at no expense to the office.

V. EXECUTIVE UNIT

Executive Director Joyce M. Hicks led the Executive Unit which includes Executive Secretary Pamela Thompson and the Accounting Unit. The Accounting Unit is solely staffed by Senior Account Clerk Laura Tham. The Executive Unit was responsible for directing and managing office operations, including personnel and budget tasks. In addition, the Director reviews all investigations and the managers of the other units in the office report to her.

VI. INVESTIGATION UNIT AND INVESTIGATION OF CASES

Chief Investigator Charles Gallman led the Investigation Unit in 2008. The three investigative teams led by Erick Baltazar, Dennis Maxson and Edward McMahon consisted of seventeen line investigators.

In 2008, the OCC opened 1021 new cases, and closed 1095 cases. The number of new cases, as well as the number of cases closed, is higher than those in each of the four previous years.

Despite staffing issues faced by the OCC, the investigative staff continued to demonstrate its commitment to the OCC's mission of investigating civilian complaints of police misconduct or neglect of duty promptly, fairly and in an unbiased manner. During 2008, the OCC was staffed with only 12 veteran investigators. This is two less in number than were on staff when the Controller's Office reported that, after studying comparable caseloads at other agencies, OCC investigators had a far higher caseload than investigators in comparable agencies. The Controller found that the average caseload in comparable agencies was 16 cases per investigator where the OCC's investigators' average caseload was 34 cases per investigator. During the third quarter, the five newly hired investigators were in training. They were not assigned cases until after five weeks of training and even then, their caseload was minimal.

In 2008, OCC investigators accomplished the mammoth task of eliminating the backlog of 2005, 2006 and 2007 cases that had built up over the years. By the close of 2008, no cases remained from prior years and only 392 of the 1021 of the complaints filed in 2008 were pending. While the OCC continued closing cases at an accelerated rate, insufficient staffing continued to have a negative impact on the time it took to investigate a case to completion, and might have had a negative impact on the rate of sustained misconduct findings. For example, while 59% of OCC cases closed in 2008 were investigated within six months, 67% of the 43 cases sustained in 2008 took more than nine months to investigate and eight of those took more than a year. However, of those eight sustained cases that took more than one year to investigate, one was filed in 2005, three were filed in 2006 and three were filed in 2007. Four of the cases were either tolled due to pending litigation or they were anonymous complaints on matters already being investigated by the Police Department. While it is unacceptable to take more than 365 days to complete cases that were not tolled, the Chief still considers cases that have passed the 365 day deadline. When she agrees that the case has sustainable allegations, she will order training and counseling which are not considered discipline.

The rate of sustained cases also continued to decline. The sustain rate for 2008 was 3.83%, which was down from the 5.24% sustain rate in 2007. Over a fifteen year period between 1998 and 2008, the median sustain rate has been 8.87%. The 2005 sustain rate was 8.93% or 102% above median. In 2006, the sustain rate veered sharply downward to 7.24% putting it at 82.7% of median. The sustain rate continued to decline in 2007, dropping to 5.38% or 57% of median. In 2008, the sustained rate declined, although not as dramatically, to 3.83%, or 50% of median. One theory is that heavy investigator caseload – the unavoidable result of insufficient staffing and investigator attrition – may have negatively impacted the rate of sustained findings. In examining the 1993 to 2008 OCC Caseload Summary for years 2001 and 2002 there appears to be a correlation between a low pending caseload and a high sustained rate. (See Appendix “A”, page 7.)

The high number of claims and litigation cases that were closed as “no finding” or as “withdrawn” also added to the low sustain rate. Additionally, since many more cases were mediated in 2008 than in any other year, the sustain rate was also reduced. Finally, improved officer training may also be a factor in the decreased sustain rate. The Police Chief agreed in whole or in part with 81 % of the sustained reports she reviewed in 2008. Upon receipt of the Chief’s adjudication letters, the OCC Executive Director consults with the Lieutenant in charge of the Management Control Division to discuss sustained cases that the Chief chose not to uphold.

VII. COMPLAINANTS

The demographic characteristics of complainants can be found in tables and charts in Appendix “A” beginning on pages 13 through 19. In 2008, African Americans and Caucasians made up the largest percentage of complainants and the majority of complainants were men. Over 60% of the complainants fell between the ages of 20 and 60. Ninety-five percent of the case intakes were in English. The next most frequent language was Spanish

(4% of the cases). Cantonese was spoken in 1% of the cases. Less than 1% of the cases involved intakes in Russian and Mandarin. (See Appendix "A" page 19.)

VIII. ALLEGATION TYPES

The 1021 complaints received by the OCC in 2008 consisted of allegations ranging from discourtesy to unnecessary force. (See Appendix "A", page 4.) The largest percentage of allegations (37%) was unwarranted action. The second highest percentage of allegations (24%) was conduct reflecting discredit followed by neglect of duty (23%) and unnecessary force (11%). Between 2007 and 2008 the percentage distribution of allegation types remained largely unchanged.

IX. FINDINGS AND ALLEGATIONS IN CLOSED CASES

The evidentiary standard for making findings in OCC cases is the "preponderance of the evidence". "Preponderance of the evidence" means that in balancing the probabilities that the incident occurred as the complainant said it did, it is more likely than not (greater than 50%) that the complainant's allegation is true. Often an event is only witnessed by the complainant and the officer, making it difficult to either prove or disprove the allegation. By far, the most frequent finding in all allegations was not sustained. In 2008, the finding for 54% of allegations in OCC complaints was not sustained. Officers were found to have engaged in proper conduct in 28% of the allegations. Allegations were sustained 3% of the time. The most frequently sustained allegation was neglect of duty (44%) of sustained allegations. Unwarranted action followed at 31%. Conduct reflecting discredit was found in 15% of the sustained allegations and unnecessary force was found in 8% of the sustained allegations. (See Appendix "A", page 28.)

X. DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS STATUS OF CURRENT OCC CASES – THE 'KEANE' REPORT

By the end of the second quarter of 2008, staff had completed intake on all 2007 cases, and by the end of 2008, closed 100% of these so that no 2007 cases were pending. In comparison, by the end of the second quarter of 2007, staff had also completed intake on all 2006 cases, and by the end of 2007 closed 94% of these, leaving 6%, or 51 cases, pending. Through closer case management, staff has significantly reduced the number of cases in intake over the same period last year. On December 31, 2008, only 36 or 4% of 2008 cases were in intake, while on December 31, 2007, 79 or 8% of 2007 cases were still in intake. Of particular note, 87% of cases closed in 2008 were closed within a year of filing. (See Appendix "A", page 30.)

XI. CASELOAD MANAGEMENT

The investigator caseload in 2008 was in much better balance than in 2007. The average caseload was 24 cases per investigator. Only one investigator's caseload exceeded 30 cases, at 31. As of December 31, 2007, the average caseload was 34 cases, yet one investigator had a caseload of 72 cases and another, 55. Four additional investigators' caseloads exceeded 30 cases. (See Appendix "A" pages 108 and 109.) The Senior Investigators took a more active role in monthly case reviews, monitoring caseloads and assuming investigative responsibility in selected cases. However, the challenge still remained at the close of 2008 to more closely monitor the progress of sustainable cases since 19% of sustained cases were submitted to the Chief 365 days or later from receipt, 2% higher than 2007. (See Appendix "A" pages 32 and 33.)

XII. LEGAL UNIT

In 2008, the OCC's Legal Team consisted of four attorneys: two full-time Trial Attorneys, a part-time Policy Analyst, and a full-time Mediation Coordinator. The two Trial Attorneys were newly hired in March and April 2008, respectively, and brought with them a collective wealth of management, civil and criminal practice experience. The Senior Trial Attorney, Ines Vargas Fraenkel, is also the manager of the Legal Team.

One of the primary duties of the legal unit is to present misconduct cases to the Police Chief when officers object to proposed discipline of 10-days suspension or less, and to the Police Commission. Under the City Charter, matters involving suspensions beyond 10-days up through termination due to misconduct are under the exclusive authority of the Police Commission.

During 2008, the OCC focused on reviewing, prioritizing and adjudicating the backlog of existing cases pending at both Chief's Hearings and Police Commission levels. As a result of this effort, the OCC presented 12 cases involving police officers at Chief's Hearings before assigned Deputy Chiefs and settled 2 cases at the proposed discipline terms prior to hearing. In 2008, the OCC also presented cases against 4 police officers before the Police Commission. Of these, 3 resulted in Stipulated Dispositions for verbal admonition and mediation, mediation and retraining, and 90-day suspension. In the case of one officer, the matter was dismissed.

XIII. MEDIATIONS

This year was a watershed year for the OCC as in increasing the numbers of cases mediated. Due to the efforts of the agency's Mediation Coordinator, Donna Salazar, and our panel of talented pro bono mediators, the agency mediated 71 cases in 2008, an increase of 25, more than 50% over the total for 2007. Mediated cases in 2008 represent 7% of the total OCC caseload for the year.

In order to promote the program among mediators and community members, and to enlarge the pool of OCC mediators, and its ability to increase mediation services, the Mediation Coordinator attended the Alternative Dispute Resolution of Northern California Conference and three Community Boards trainings. The Mediation Coordinator's outreach efforts have produced a number of volunteers who have applied to be mediators. The Mediation Coordinator will lead an orientation session for new volunteer applicants in the spring of 2009.

The mediation program has proven to be an effective educational tool for both officers and complainants. The OCC plans to continue to promote the mediation program to the community.

The mediation program provides a forum for officers and civilians to have a frank discussion regarding the complaint and serves as an educational experience for all participants. In addition to the non-confrontational opportunity for dispute resolution, the mediation program provides the following unique benefits which are unavailable under the investigative process:

- Time savings.
Mediation allows cases to be processed expeditiously. In 2008, mediated cases were open a median of 67 days and an average of 86 days, whereas investigated cases were open a median of 162 days and an average of 216 days.
- Cost savings.
Cases are mediated by a current roster of 89 volunteer mediators who conduct mediations without charge. Additionally, mediated cases relieve the investigators from additional casework. The 71 cases mediated in 2008 could have easily consumed a full-time investigator's annual caseload.
- Greater Satisfaction for Complainants and Officers
In the voluntary and anonymous exit survey that is set forth below, 96% of the participants were satisfied or very satisfied with the mediation program.

The following responses were received in the OCC mediation exit survey during 2008:

- Rating of participant's experience with the mediation process –
 - 39.32% - very satisfied
 - 56.41% - satisfied
 - 4.27% - dissatisfied.

- Whether the mediation location provided a safe environment to freely express concerns and issues –
 - 95.56% - yes
 - 4.44% - no
- Percentage of mediation participants who felt they had the opportunity to be heard and express their thoughts –
 - 98.92%-yes
 - 1.08%-no
- Percentage of participants who felt that the other party fully participated in the mediation –
 - 89.25%- yes
 - 10.75%- no
- Percentage of participants who felt that the mediators accurately identified and addressed the core issue of the complainant –
 - 94.57%- yes
 - 5.43%- no
- Percentage of participants who felt that the complaint was totally resolved at the mediation –
 - Totally resolved - 54.26%
 - Partially resolved - 38.30%
 - Not resolved at all - 7.44%

Two examples of successful mediations follow:

Example #1

The Complainant was stopped for missing a stop sign. When the officer approached the car the Complainant began to get out of the car. The officer barked at the Complainant telling him to "get back in that car NOW!" The Complainant felt that the officers' behavior was inappropriate and rude. He could not understand why the officer would treat a law-abiding citizen in such a manner.

At the mediation, the officer explained that police procedures for making traffic stops require that officers make certain that people remain in their vehicle for officer safety. The officer described a recent incident where a driver came out of a car and approached an officer with a knife. The Complainant understood and told the officer that the procedure made perfect sense once it had been explained to him. The officer realized that, had he taken the time to explain why the Complainant should remain in his car during the incident, the Complainant would not have filed the complaint.

Example#2

The Complainant was subject to a citizen's arrest without the opportunity to explain to the officers what had occurred. During mediation, the officers acknowledged that if they had listened to what the Complainant wanted to say, they might have taken a different police action. The Complainant indicated that the mediation helped both parties understand the other's perception and was an excellent method to resolve the complaint. The mediation participants ended their mediation by shaking hands.

XIV. OUTREACH

In 2008, the OCC developed a Community Outreach Strategic Plan, which outlined its outreach goals in the areas of community presentations and partnerships, language access, training, website development, media relations, and program effectiveness and resources. By using a community-based approach that relies upon presentations, widely distributed written materials in multiple languages, and the OCC website, the OCC's Outreach Strategic Plan provided a roadmap for strengthening its relationships with communities which historically and statistically, were likely to have encounters with the police. The OCC's Community Outreach Strategic Plan also sought to reach communities that have been racially, culturally or linguistically isolated from police services. Despite significant staffing shortages, the OCC has successfully implemented this ambitious outreach strategy.

The OCC's outreach efforts in 2008 included work in coalition with representatives of numerous legal and community groups, such as the Asian Law Caucus, La Raza Centro Legal, Youth Law Center, Asian Pacific Islander Legal Outreach, Chinese for Affirmative Action and the Lawyers Committee for Civil Rights, to name a few. In addition to its work investigating complaints, OCC representatives made presentations to Police Academy classes at the beginning and end of their training, and staffed tables and/or made presentations at community events and monthly Police Commission meetings held in the Richmond, Ingleside, Bayview, Central and Taraval Districts, the Transgender Health Fair, Vietnamese Tet Festival, Thurgood Marshal High School, Climate of Change, the Asian Heritage Street Celebration, the New York City Civilian Review Board, the Immigrants Rights Commission, the Youth Commission, the Juvenile Justice Providers Association, the Senior Action Network Convention, Golden Gate Law School, International House of UC Berkeley, Operation Homeless Connect, and North Beach Chinatown Mental Health Service.

The OCC also regularly distributed complaint forms and brochures in six languages to all police stations, the District Attorney's Office, the Public Defender's Office, the Mayor's Office of Neighborhood Services, the ACCESS Center, all twenty seven branch libraries, the Mayor's Office on Aging and Adult Services, La Raza Centro Legal, and community centers including Community Boards, the Ella Hill Hutch Community Center, the Bayview Hunters Point Family Resource Center, the Bernal Heights and Mission Neighborhood Centers, the African American Resource Center, Community United against Violence, and to the North Beach Neighborhood Homeless Services.

Local media have also given the OCC's work exposure. The OCC was interviewed by a local Spanish language television station as well as two Chinese newspapers in 2008, in conjunction with its work with the Language Access and Juvenile protocols. Further, an article was published in the NACOLE Review regarding the Police Department's Language Access policy. Lastly, KCBS aired a public service announcement regarding the OCC Mediation Program to an audience of 200,000 in October 2008.

XV. POLICY ANALYSIS

During 2008 the OCC's policy work focused on policies regarding juveniles, and language access.

A. Juveniles

The OCC, in collaboration with juvenile justice advocacy groups, city agencies, commissions and the Police Department, proposed extensive revisions to Department General Order 7.01 ("DGO"), a protocol for police interactions with juveniles. The DGO was adopted by the Police Commission on May 7, 2008, and significantly increases protections to juveniles by permitting parents, to be present during interrogations, mandating the tape recording of all juvenile interrogations, requiring notification to parents when juveniles are detained, and requiring that juveniles be brought to juvenile-centered facilities instead of district stations where juveniles are exposed to adult lock-up facilities and adult suspects. After passage of the DGO, the OCC followed up by attending organized meetings with SFPD and juvenile justice advocates and by outlining a strategy for training and public education. The OCC also developed, in conjunction with community organizations, a guide for youth that highlights key SFPD policies and procedures relating to juveniles, including information about Miranda warnings, parental notifications, arrests, interrogations, and custodial detentions.

B. Language Access

As part of its policy work to develop police training and public education materials on

Department General Order 5.20 (Language Access Services for Limited English Proficient (LEP) Persons), the OCC held a community briefing in February 2008 on the recently adopted language access policy at Chinese for Affirmative Action offices. Speakers included OCC policy analyst Samara Marion, Police Chief Heather Fong, and community advocates. Also in 2008, the OCC developed a brochure to inform the public of the availability of bilingual officers, interpreters and translated materials under the Police Department's new DGO. Over twenty community groups, city agencies and commissions reviewed and endorsed this brochure, which the Department approved and is currently translating into multiple languages.

The OCC also participated in drafting the script and in the filming of a Police Academy training video on the new Language Access policy. The training video provides various scenarios where language barriers have negative consequences for both officers and LEP persons and instructs on the best method of providing language assistance. Finally, OCC Policy Analyst Samara Marion wrote an article entitled "Breaking Down Language Barriers" that was published by the National Association for Civilian Oversight of Law Enforcement. The article discusses the OCC's collaborative work with community organizations, city agencies, commissions and the San Francisco Police Department in implementing the San Francisco language access protocol.

During the third quarter of 2008, Policy Analyst Samara Marion began a one-year leave of absence. Beginning in September 2008, Ms. Marion's position was filled by temporary staff attorney and Policy Analyst Ellise Nicholson.

XVI. CLERICAL UNIT

The clerical unit is led by Principal Clerk Linda Taylor. In 2008, the clerical team input 1021 complaints into the database, typed the disposition letters for the 1095 closed cases and updated the database accordingly.

Additionally, the OCC received 358 requests to process Pitchess Motions and Federal Court requests involving 1,496 San Francisco Police Department members. These requests were labor intensive and required ordering a voluminous number of documents from the off-site storage facility, scanning them and re-filing them. The unreimbursed and unbudgeted cost to the OCC for these services amounted to nearly $5,000.

XVII. INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY UNIT

The OCC's information technology function drives and supports its data intensive operations. Chris Wisniewski, OCC's Information Services Business Analyst, performs that function. 2008 was the first calendar year OCC reaped the full reward of seeds sown in the course of its complex relocation and by investments made in previous years. The challenge of a new focus on strategic case management was met with a highly stable, secure and customized intuitive computing environment that was infrastructure ready for the productivity gains made.

Though much of the first part of the year was spent accommodating changes and additions in staffing, a sharp decrease in hardware and software related problems through preventative efforts and prior investments allowed OCC's IS Business Analyst, Chris Wisniewski, in coordination with Department of Technology network staff to put in place some of the last pieces of OCC's infrastructure overhaul. OCC's most important of three servers was migrated to new hardware with an upgraded operating system, anti-virus/security and backup software. Despite some problems which typically arise in such an undertaking, the transition was ultimately smooth with no data loss, disruption or downtime for staff. The office was also seamlessly moved to double-sided and consolidated printing/copying/scanning which has reduced paper and maintenance costs. The devices selected have proven to be extremely reliable.

In the mid and later parts of the year, large strides were made in the ongoing development and sharpening of database-driven case management tools. The past few years have seen OCC's database system, once used primarily to produce reports, leveraged, transformed and linked up to electronic documents to become an integral and daily part of case prioritization and supervision. By the end of 2008, the database included the complaint forms (293's), complaint summary reports and digital recordings of interviews.

2008 also saw an increase in demand for greater quantity and complexity of reporting produced from our systems. In addition to annual and quarterly Statistical, Early Intervention, Document Protocol, Keane and Performance Measure reports, special reports were developed on civil claim generated cases (Marconi Protocols), mediations, and intake and casework for limited English proficient complainants.

OCC's IS Business Analyst also negotiated transitions with the Police Department's CABLE, RMS and E911 networks, assuring OCC's investigative staff continuity of access to these important systems. Mr. Wisniewski also worked with the Police Department's Professional Standards Unit to develop the means to deliver OCC data from our systems in real-time to the Police Department's Early Intervention System.

OCC's extensive keyword/phrase searchable intranet portal (first introduced in 2004) continues to be updated, organized and extended. This portal provides access to over 1200 electronic documents. It relieves investigative, legal and other staff of much of the burden of finding relevant reference materials including Department documents, logs, investigative aides and OCC's own templates. In May a much needed Senior Clerk Typist position was added to the budget. Fiona Chan was hired late May and maintains OCC's intranet, OCC's public website and assists in other special tasks.

Plans for 2009 include streamlining and modernizing workflows such as the transition to digital voice recording which was rolled out in December. This initiative produces better quality sound files, saves on media and storage and allows OCC to integrate the sound files with case management and other tools.

XVIII. PERFORMANCE MEASURES

Performance measures are a part of the OCC's annual budget. The budget is adopted on a fiscal year that runs from July 1 through June 30. Performance measure data has been adjusted to a calendar year basis for the purposes of this report. The statistics below are based on the calendar year 2008 and the targets have been adjusted to average the targets and projected numbers for two fiscal half years, i.e., the latter half of fiscal year 2007/2008 (January 1 through June 30, 2008) and the first half of fiscal year 2008/2009 (July 1 through December 31, 2009).

1. Goal 1 - Address civilian complaints of police misconduct professionally and efficiently
 - a. Measure number 1 - This performance measure identifies the number of completed investigations that contained at least one sustained allegation. There is no target or projection because such a target may give the impression that the agency's mission is to find misconduct where there is none. However, the measurement is used to comparatively evaluate agency workload and performance, as well as to evaluate caseload management. The actual number of sustained cases from January 1 through December 31, 2008 was 42, or a 3.83% sustain rate.
 - b. Measure number 2 - Percentage of sustained complaints completed in a timely manner. The actual percentage from January 1 through December 30, 2008 was 81 %. The target is 100%. The projected is 90%.

The variance between the actual and target is due to eight cases which contained sustained findings of misconduct which were forwarded to the Chief's office beyond the one year time period specified by law. The agency has now put into place mechanisms that track the timeliness of cases through the investigative process and include clear mandates of timely completion in performance plans for all three investigator classifications.

- c. Measure number 3 – Number of complaints closed during the year per FTE investigator. The target is 60 per year and 30 per six months. The actual from January 1 through December 31, 2008 was 75. The projected was 60 cases per investigator per year. During the first six months of the 2008, investigators were successful in significantly reducing the historic backlog of old cases by closing all four remaining 2005 cases and nineteen of the twenty 2006 cases. The investigators increased their 2007 case closure rate by 31% in 2008.

2. Goal 2 - Facilitate corrective action in response to complaints

- a. Measure number 1- Percentage of identified cases in which policy, procedure, and practice recommendations are presented to the SFPD or the Police Commission. The actual from January 1 through December 30, 2008 was 81%. The target and the projected are 90% for fiscal year 2008/2009 and the target and projected for fiscal year 2007/2008 was 100%.

The OCC presented 13 policy recommendations to the SFPD and/or the Police Commission from January 1 through December 31, 2009. The OCC closed 16 cases during the measurement period where policy, procedure and/or practice failure were identified. Two cases that have not yet been presented were closed in late December 2008 and the policy recommendations will be presented in the first quarter of 2009. Additionally, there are 17 policy recommendations and/or responses to Department General Order revisions that the OCC is working with SFPD to resolve. Not all policies presented to the Commission and/or SFPD are the same ones that relate to cases closed as policy recommendations in the measurement period. Further, the OCC, working with the Police Department, is creating policy materials in response to recommendations made to the Police Commission. The Commission has instituted timelines and priorities for this policy work.

- b. Measure number 2 – Percentage of sustained cases that resulted in corrective or disciplinary action by the Chief or Police Commission. The actual from January to December 31, 2008 was 83%. The target and projected is 90%.

Over the past decade, the rate of sustained cases that resulted in corrective action by the Chief of Police has ranged from 66% to 95%. Improved communication and discussion between the OCC and SFPD, and more timely imposition of discipline by the Police Department may facilitate consistent findings.

XIX. CONTROLLER'S AUDIT

While this annual report will not address all 45 of the recommendations, we will highlight our accomplishments and challenges. The report recommended that specifically the OCC should:

- Monitor its progress on investigations and work with the SFPD to complete the investigation and discipline notification process within the one-year statute of limitations, with the specific goal of completing all investigations within the Charter guideline of nine months, but definitely no later than ten months.

The OCC continued to be challenged in 2008 in meeting timeliness goals for sustained cases. Since staffing decreased from the 14 investigators who were on staff during the Controller's Audit to a low of 12 investigators for most of 2008, the percentage of sustained cases that were completed within 270 days shrank from 46% to 33%. The percentage of sustained cases that were completed after one year increased in 2008 to 19% compared to 17% in 2007. Four of these sustained cases were either tolled by pending litigation or were already the subject of an internal investigation by the Police Department.

Several steps were taken to meet the goal of completing sustained cases within 270 days, including weekly team meetings of each investigative team and weekly team meetings between the Chief Investigator and the Senior Investigators to review the aging reports and to prioritize work. The Chief and Senior Investigators reassigned cases to themselves to relieve line investigators. Finally, the legal team has provided training on Government Code section 3304 to the investigators and works with the investigators to clarify issues regarding the applicability of tolling provisions. Additionally, performance plans were adopted for each investigator to require timeliness.

- Create a full "aging report" of open investigations and use it to prioritize cases and redistribute caseloads as necessary to complete timely investigations

Two aging reports existed in the Supervisor's Tracking system at the time of the Controller's Audit. Clearly they were not used effectively, either then or through 2008. These reports identify cases that are 6 months old or older and 8 months old or older and whether the cases were sustainable or not, they were not used effectively. Performance goals requiring effective use of the case tracking system are set forth in performance appraisals.

- Identify staff training needs and develop a plan to meet those needs for both new and current staff.

OCC line investigators, supervisory investigators and the Chief Investigator devoted significant time in developing and implementing an in-house training program for new investigators and veteran investigators. As the budget permitted, new investigators were scheduled for POST internal affairs investigator training in 2009.

- Schedule and conduct annual employee performance goal setting and appraisals

Performance plans were implemented for all OCC staff during 2008. Staff is scheduled to receive their appraisals in early 2009. We have communicated expectations to ensure accountability.

- Hold a staff retreat

OCC held a renewal retreat on April 26, 2008. A common thread that ran through the small groups was the importance of feeling valued and respected, of operating with integrity and of loyalty and the need for communication.

- Enhance staff communication.

We have enhanced communication by holding weekly management team and unit team meetings and periodic investigator and staff meetings. Additionally, email is used to communicate recent developments including notice of cases adjudicated by the Chief of Police. In 2008, the office held six all hands investigator meetings and five all hands staff meetings.

- Increase Mediations

In 2008 cases mediated were increased by 50% to 71 over the 46 that were mediated in 2007

- Develop a Community Outreach Strategic Plan

A Community Outreach Strategic Plan was developed and implemented in 2008. Community outreach was included as a performance measure in the employees' performance plans.

- Develop a Policies and Procedures Manual

The OCC's goal for 2009 is to complete the work it began on a Procedures Manual. It is currently under review.

- Assess whether adequate resources exist to accomplish OCC's mission

After conducting interviews with each staff member and assessing his or her workload, it was obvious that OCC was understaffed. OCC augmented its budget by adding clerical, investigative and administrative positions. In the first 6 months of 2008 OCC shrank from 14 to 12 investigators due to attrition and by the end of 2008 OCC grew to 17 investigators.

By the end of 2008 OCC had filled 35 staff positions and 11 of those members have been in their positions for less than one year. Nearly a third of OCC's staff is new and brings an infusion of new energy and new ideas to enhance and complement experienced staff who have been with the office an average of ten years.

OCC was still staff challenged at the year's end because three positions OCC had successfully advocated be added to its budget remained unfilled due to the City's severe budget deficit. These positions included a line investigator, a senior investigator and a senior clerk typist.

XX. CONCLUSION

The OCC began a transformation in 2008. It was the first year under my full leadership and new staff that I have hired now makes up over 30% of OCC's staff. My focus in 2008 was staffing the agency and staff development overlaid with accountability and improved case management. Veteran staff showed its determination to timely investigate cases despite an increase in cases and a decrease in staff for most of the year. Eight-seven percent of cases closed in 2008 were closed within a year of filing. Veteran staff also provided training on office policies and procedures to the new arrivals and developed a comprehensive training for them.

Due to the City's severe budget constraints, two investigator positions and a clerical position remained unfilled at the year's end. Despite this staffing shortfall, the OCC will continue to carefully manage its caseload to ensure that it promptly, fairly and impartially investigates complaints of police conduct or allegations that a member of the Police Department has not performed a duty and will continue to make policy recommendations on police practices and policies.

Re: Office of Citizen Complaints 2009 Annual Statistical Report

I. INTRODUCTION

Enclosed is the Office of Citizen Complaint's ("OCC") 2009 Annual Statistical Report. The OCC began 2009 with a clean slate. In 2008 the OCC eliminated its historical backlog of dated cases. The OCC ended 2009 with an uncertain future that could result in the loss of nine positions due to mandated budget cuts to meet the City's projected $520 million budget deficit.

II. EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The OCC has served under the leadership of Director Joyce M. Hicks since November, 2007. Director Hicks was charged with improving case management and personnel management for the OCC. The 2008 annual report reflects that case management and personnel management reforms for the OCC were underway and that in 2009 it would continue to promptly, fairly and impartially investigate civilian complaints of police misconduct. The statistics set forth below bear out the OCC's forward momentum in 2009.

The OCC closed more cases than it opened, even though it received in excess of 1000 complaints for the second year in a row. It facilitated the highest number of mediations in its history; 76. The OCC closed all cases from the previous year. The investigators improved the timeliness of their investigations. Through well managed investigations, the journey investigators' caseloads were reduced from an average of 24 cases in 2008 to 21 cases in 2009. The OCC's sustained rate increased by 34% from 3.83% in 2008 to 5.14% in 2009.

The OCC's legal unit provided sustainability analyses to the investigators and prosecuted cases both at the Commission and Chief of Police levels. It also oversaw outreach efforts under the OCC's Community Outreach Strategic Plan. Additionally, the legal unit's policy work included participation in the Police Department's historic officer involved shooting study. Policy work also included continued attention to police policies on language access and interaction with juveniles.

The OCC's technology unit developed and released the Investigator Case Browser to allow journey level investigators to work more collaboratively and contemporaneously with their supervisors and legal staff in prioritizing and managing caseloads.

The OCC was within two percentage points of meeting or exceeding all its budget performance measures which included case closure rates per investigator, concurrence between the OCC and the Police Chief or Police Commission on sustained cases, timeliness of sustained cases and policy recommendations.

Finally the Controller's City Service Auditor conducted a post audit follow-up of the OCC and concluded that, "[a]s a result of the audit recommendations being implemented, the OCC's operations should be more efficient, effective, transparent, and compliant with City laws and policy."

While current staffing levels and cases per investigator were not optimal in 2009, the OCC continued to improve the timeliness of its investigations and its sustainability analyses. The OCC concluded 2009 with budget uncertainty and the unfortunate prospect of nine potential layoffs.

III. MISSION OF THE OFFICE OF CITIZEN COMPLAINTS

The mission of the OCC is to promptly, fairly and impartially investigate complaints against San Francisco police officers and make policy recommendations concerning police practices.

IV. HISTORY AND FUNCTIONS OF THE OFFICE OF CITIZEN COMPLAINTS

The OCC first became staffed and began its operations in 1983. It was created by charter amendment proposed by the Board of Supervisors that was adopted on November 2, 1982. By subsequent charter amendments the OCC is guaranteed minimum staffing of one investigator for every 150 police officers and the OCC Director may file charges with the Police Commission after meeting and conferring with the Police Chief. (San Francisco City Charter, Article IV, section 4.127.) The OCC is a civilian-staffed local governmental agency that reports to the Police Commission. The Police Commission is a volunteer civilian body of seven (7) members, four (4) members nominated by the Mayor and three (3) members nominated by the Board of Supervisors. Each member must be confirmed by a majority of the Board of Supervisors. The Police Commission nominates the Director of the OCC and the Mayor appoints the Director subject to approval by the Board of Supervisors. The Police Commission has the power to terminate the services of the OCC's Director. The Director of the OCC reports to the Police Commission at its weekly meetings. By Charter, the Police Commission holds the power to manage, organize and reorganize the OCC. In practice, these powers are exercised by the Police Commission through the OCC Director. Civilians who have never been police officers in San Francisco staff the Office of Citizen Complaints.

The OCC receives, investigates and makes findings on civilian complaints of on-duty misconduct (including acts and omissions) by sworn members of the San Francisco Police Department. Where the OCC sustains one or more allegations against one or more officers in a given case, the case can either be decided by the Chief of Police or the Police Commission. The factors governing whether the Police Commission hears a case that has been sustained by the OCC include: severity of misconduct and of potential discipline; complexity of issues presented; degree of public interest in the matter and OCC recommendation to the Chief of Police as to forum (Chief or Commission). The Chief of Police either refers the case to the Commission or hears it directly. The Chief of Police has disciplinary power to issue up to a 10-day suspension; the Commission holds all greater disciplinary power, including the power to hear appeals from the Chief's disciplinary decisions. Both the Chief and the OCC Director (after conferring with the Chief) may file charges of officer misconduct with the Commission.

The Office of Citizen Complaints' staff speaks a variety of languages, including French, Spanish, Tagalog, Russian, Mandarin, Cantonese and Burmese. If complainants speak a language other than those languages spoken by OCC staff, the OCC staff provides an interpreter free of charge.

Consistent with the Peace Officers' Bill of Rights, officers accused by complaints filed with the OCC receive notice of the allegations against them, an opportunity to be heard by the OCC and to be represented during the investigative process, and notice of the outcome of the OCC's process. Officers are required by local law to appear upon written notice from the OCC, and if they fail to appear without sufficient cause, they are subject to discipline. If a complaint is sustained against an officer by the OCC, the officer is served with written charges and the officer is provided a hearing before either the Chief or the Commission.

By City Charter, the OCC is required to receive every complaint of alleged police misconduct or improper performance made by a member of the public where the complaint involves one or more sworn San Francisco Police Department members. The OCC's practice is to limit its investigations to those complaints involving on-duty conduct or conduct under the color of authority. All complaints are investigated unless the allegations on their face show proper conduct or they are outside OCC's jurisdiction. Cases outside the OCC's jurisdiction are forwarded to proper authorities.

The OCC performs four distinct functions: (1) it investigates complaints and makes findings on those complaints; (2) it mediates complaints; (3) it analyzes police policies and practices; and (4) it performs community outreach. These functions were performed by a staff that reached thirty-five employees by the end of 2008. Pursuant to the Charter, none of these employees has ever served as employees of the San Francisco Police Department.

The OCC consists of eight functional units: Executive, Legal, Mediation and Outreach, Investigative, Policy Analysis, Information Services, Clerical and Accounting. The functions of each of these units will be more thoroughly described in latter sections of this report.

V. ORGANIZATIONAL DEVELOPMENTS

OCC staffing levels remained relatively stable during 2009. Thirty-four of OCC's thirty-five employees continued to serve during 2009. However, a mid-year citywide proposed budget reduction threatened the loss of three positions including a clerk typist, senior clerk typist and an investigator. The layoffs were held in abeyance pending the exploration of alternative budget solutions. The OCC did lose $40,000 in its operations budget in 2009. This loss of funds degraded the OCC's ability to effectively maintain its technology and adequately equip its investigators with essential technological tools.

In 2009 the OCC created a more user friendly website which can be found at www.sfgov.org/occ. The homepage now contains sections on news, programs, the OCC's mission, and links to the Police Commission's and Police Department's websites. The OCC's Information Systems Business Analyst enhanced the OCC database by creating an investigator case browser which generates reports that include, among other things, case summaries, case age, data entry deficiencies and access to other investigators' progress on their cases. The investigators also participated in a three month time study to determine how their time is spent in the conduct of investigations. The time study showed that OCC investigators spent over 47% of their time on writing, research, analysis and review, and up to 15% of their time on clerical tasks. The remaining 38% of their time was spent on other investigative and administrative tasks.

Finally, the City Services Auditor (CSA) conducted a follow up review of OCC's operations and published a follow up memorandum that addressed OCC's progress on the 38 recommendations that it made in its January 24, 2007 audit report on OCC's operations. A summary of the auditor's review is set forth in section XX of this annual report.

VI. EXECUTIVE UNIT

Director Joyce M. Hicks led the Executive Unit in 2009. The Executive Unit included Executive Secretary Pamela Thompson and the Accounting Unit. The Accounting Unit was solely staffed by Senior Account Clerk Laura Tham. The Executive Unit was responsible for directing and managing office operations, including personnel and budget tasks. In addition, the Director reviews all investigations and the managers of the other units in the office report to her.

VII. INVESTIGATION UNIT AND INVESTIGATION OF CASES

Chief Investigator Charles Gallman led the Investigation Unit in 2009. The three investigative teams led by Senior Investigators Erick Baltazar, Dennis Maxson and Edward McMahon consisted of seventeen journey level investigators.

In 2009, the OCC opened 1018 new cases and closed 1031 cases. The number of new cases and the number of cases closed is the second highest number of cases opened and closed over the last five years.

Despite staffing issues faced by the OCC, the investigative staff continued to demonstrate its commitment to the OCC's mission of investigating civilian complaints of police misconduct or neglect of duty promptly, fairly and impartially. During 2009, the OCC was staffed with only 17 journey level investigators. However, five of them were hired during the third and fourth quarters of 2008 and had less than two years experience as OCC investigators. In 2009, with 17 journey investigators, the OCC investigators' caseloads were reduced to 21 cases per investigator. In its 2007 audit of the OCC, the Controller's Office reported that, after studying comparable caseloads at other agencies, OCC investigators had a far higher caseload than investigators in comparable agencies. The Controller found that the average caseload in comparable agencies was 16 cases per investigator while the OCC's investigators had an average caseload of 34 cases.

By the close of 2009, no cases remained from 2008 and only 381 of the 1018 complaints filed in 2009 were pending. While the OCC continued closing more cases than it opened, insufficient staffing continued to have a negative impact on the time it took to investigate a case to completion and might have had a negative impact on the rate of sustained misconduct findings. For example, while 86% of OCC cases closed in 2009 were investigated within nine months, 51% of the 53 cases sustained in 2009 took more than nine months to investigate and two of those took more than a year. However, of those two sustained cases that took more than one year to investigate, one of them was tolled due to pending litigation.

The OCC investigators significantly improved their investigation time in 2009 by closing 86% of their cases in nine months over 2008 when 75% of cases were closed within nine months. Additionally, in 2008, 57% of sustained cases were more than nine months old and 19% of them were more than a year old compared to 2009 when 51% of sustained cases were more than nine months old and only 4% of them were more than one year old.

While OCC staffing was insufficient in 2009, the increase in trained investigators to 17 may have had an impact on the sustained rate. The rate of sustained cases began to increase in 2009. The sustained rate for 2009 was 5.14% which was up from 3.83% in 2008 and comparable to the sustained 5.24% sustained rate in 2007. Over a sixteen year period between 1993 and 2009, the median sustained rate was 8.82%.

In studying sustained rates over the past five years, the 2005 sustained rate was 8.93% or 105% of the mean sustained rate¹. In 2006, the sustained rate declined to 7.24%, putting it at 85% of mean. The sustained rate continued to decline in 2007, dropping to 5.36% or 63% of mean. In 2008, the sustained rate continued to decline, reaching 3.84%, or 45% of mean. Finally, as previously stated, in 2009 the sustained rate increased to 5.14% or 60% of mean. While the sustained rate increased in 2009, it is 40% below baseline. Several theories have been posited on the OCC's recent lower than average sustained rate. One theory is that heavy investigator caseload – the unavoidable result of insufficient staffing and investigator attrition – may have negatively impacted the rate of sustained findings. 2009 was a year of relative stability for the OCC investigative staff. There was no investigator attrition and all five of OCC's new investigators celebrated their one year anniversary in 2009. In examining the 1993 to 2009 OCC Caseload Summary for years 2001 and 2002 there appears to be a correlation between a low pending caseload and a high sustained rate. (See Appendix "A", page 8)

Additionally, the sustained rate may be lower because many more cases were mediated in 2009 than in any other year. Finally, improved officer training may also be a factor in the decreased sustained rate. In 2008 former Police Chief Heather Fong agreed in whole or in part with 81 % of the sustained reports she reviewed. Chief George Gascón and former Chief Heather Fong overlapped in 2009 and the agreement rate increased to 90%. The agreement rate from January 1, 2009 to June 30, 2009 was 92% for 12 out of 13 cases and from July 1, 2009 to December 31, 2009, 89 % for 31 out of 35 cases.

¹ The sustained rate is calculated by dividing the number of cases with one or more sustained allegations by the number of cases closed. The mean sustained rate between 1993 and 2009 is 8.53%.

VIII. COMPLAINANTS

The demographic characteristics of complainants can be found in tables and charts in Appendix "A" beginning on pages 13 through 22. In 2009, African Americans and Caucasians made up the largest percentage of complainants, 32%, and the majority of complainants were men, 61.7%. According to 2008 Census data, African Americans are only 7% of San Francisco's population, yet they were 28% of OCC's 2009 complainants. The majority of complainants fell between the ages of 31 and 60. Ninety-five percent of the case intakes were in English. The next most frequent language was Spanish (4% of the cases). Cantonese was spoken in 1% of the cases. Less than 1% of the cases involved intakes in Russian and Mandarin. (See Appendix "A" page 21.)

IX. ALLEGATION TYPES

The 1018 complaints received by the OCC in 2009 consisted of allegations ranging from discourtesy to unnecessary force. (See Appendix "A", page 23.) The largest percentage of allegations (37%) was unwarranted action. The second highest percentage of allegations (25%) was conduct reflecting discredit followed by neglect of duty (22%) and unnecessary force (11%). Between 2008 and 2009 the percentage distribution of allegation types remained largely unchanged.

X. FINDINGS AND ALLEGATIONS IN CLOSED CASES

The evidentiary standard for making findings in OCC cases is the "preponderance of the evidence". "Preponderance of the evidence" means that in balancing the probabilities that the incident occurred as the complainant said it did, it is more likely than not (greater than 50%) that the complainant's allegation is true. Often an event is only witnessed by the complainant and the officer, making it difficult to either prove or disprove the allegation. By far the most frequent finding in all allegations was not sustained. In 2009, the finding for 56% of allegations in OCC complaints was not sustained. Officers were found to have engaged in proper conduct in 27% of the allegations. Allegations were sustained 3% of the time. The most frequently sustained allegation was neglect of duty (67% of sustained allegations). Unwarranted action followed at 18%. Conduct reflecting discredit was found in 10% of the sustained allegations and conduct reflecting discredit was found in 3% of the allegations. Unnecessary force was found in 2% of the sustained allegations. (See Appendix "A", page 32.)

XI. DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS STATUS OF CURRENT OCC CASES – THE ‘KEANE’ REPORT

By the end of the first quarter of 2009, staff had completed intake² on all 2008 cases, and by the end of 2009, closed 100% of these so that no 2008 cases were pending. In comparison, by the end of the first quarter of 2008, 34 cases or 4% of 2007 cases were in intake, and by the end of 2008, 51 cases from 2007 or 4% were still pending. Through closer case management, staff has significantly reduced the number of cases in intake over the same period last year. Of particular note, 97% of cases closed in 2009 were closed within a year of filing as compared to 87% in 2008. (See Appendix “A”, pages 80 and 81.)

XII. CASELOAD MANAGEMENT

The investigator caseload in 2009 was in better balance than in 2008. The average caseload was 21 cases per investigator. The highest caseload was 26 cases and the lowest was 19. In comparison, as of December 31, 2008 the average caseload was 24 cases and only one investigator’s caseload exceeded 30 cases, at 31. As of December 31, 2007, the average caseload was 34 cases, yet one investigator had a caseload of 72 cases and another, 55. Four additional investigators’ caseloads exceeded 30 cases. (See Appendix “A” pages 117 and 118.) The Senior Investigators continued monthly case reviews, monitoring caseloads and assuming investigative responsibility in selected cases.

XIII. LEGAL UNIT

OCC’s legal unit is led by Inés Vargas Fraenkel. In 2009, the OCC’s legal unit consisted of four attorney positions: one supervising trial attorney, one full-time trial attorney, one part-time attorney policy analyst, and one full-time attorney mediation coordinator. The trial attorney who started at the OCC in April 2008 resigned in May 2009. She was replaced with an experienced litigator who joined the OCC in August 2009. By the end of third quarter of 2009, the legal unit was back to its full complement of attorneys.

² Complaint intake occurs during the first fifteen working days of complaint filing with the OCC. Complaint intake includes completion of the complaint form, obtaining police documents through computer research and routine and non-routine document requests, interview of the complainant and available witnesses, photo spreads to identify officers, obtaining signed medical releases, obtaining signed juvenile consent forms, photographing injuries, identifying initial allegations, beginning case work summary, citing relevant rules and developing an investigation plan for review by the investigator’s supervisor.

One of the primary duties of the legal unit is to present misconduct cases to the Police Chief when officers object to proposed discipline of 10-days suspension or less, and to the Police Commission. Under the City Charter, matters involving suspensions beyond 10-days up through termination due to misconduct are under the exclusive authority of the Police Commission.

During 2009, the OCC continued to focus on reviewing, prioritizing and adjudicating the backlog of existing cases pending at both Chief's Hearings and Police Commission levels, and in ensuring that newly filed cases moved in a timely pace. In furtherance of this effort, the Legal Team presented 5 cases involving 4 police officers at Chief's Hearings before assigned Deputy Chiefs.

In 2009, the OCC also presented 6 cases against 11 officers to the Police Commission, and was able to reach resolution on all of them. One of the cases, which involved a police captain, was presented by the OCC in two Police Commission meetings which were open to the public. That case was not sustained by the Police Commission. In another matter, one of the officers received a Written Reprimand for her actions, and the remaining 9 agreed to receive discipline at the Chief's level of up to 10 days of suspension. In 3 of the cases, minor charges were also dismissed.

XIV. MEDIATIONS

This year the OCC again increased the number of cases mediated. Due to the efforts of the agency's Mediation Coordinator, Donna Salazar, and the OCC's panel of talented pro bono mediators, the agency facilitated the mediation of 76 cases in 2009, an increase of 5 cases. Mediated cases in 2009 represented 7% of the total OCC caseload for the year.

The OCC's mediation program continued to flourish as evidenced by its increasing number of mediated cases and nation-wide recognition as a successful model. Ranked as the second largest community-police mediation program in the country³, the OCC's mediation program was featured in the National Association for Civilian Oversight of Law Enforcement quarterly newsletter The NACOLE Review.

The OCC's mediation program has proven to be an educational tool for officers and complainants alike, and the OCC will continue to promote the program to the community.

³ Only the New York City Civilian Complaint Review Board, which received over 7,000 complaints in 2008 for a police force that exceeds 37,000 police officers, mediated more complaints than the OCC. In 2008 the New York City CCRB mediated 129 complaints.

This year the Mediation Coordinator attended the Alternative Dispute Resolution of Northern California Conference and two Community Boards trainings to promote the program among mediators and community members. As a result of this community education, the Mediation Coordinator provided two orientations for twenty one new mediators enlarging the OCC's pool of mediators to increase its mediation efforts. In October, Director Hicks participated in a presentation on mediation programs at the National Association for Civilian Oversight of Law Enforcement annual conference with panelists from the New York City Civilian Complaint Review Board, the Washington D.C. Office of Police Complaints and the Denver Office of the Independent Monitor.

The mediation program provides a forum for officers and civilians to have a frank discussion regarding the complaint and serves as an educational experience for all participants. In addition to the non-confrontational opportunity for dispute resolution, the mediation program provides the following unique benefits which are unavailable under the investigative process:

Time savings.

Mediation allows cases to be processed expeditiously. In 2009, mediated cases were open a median of 64 days and an average of 79 days, while investigated cases were open a median of 127 days and an average of 146 days.

Cost savings.

Cases are mediated by a current roster of over 100 volunteer mediators who conduct mediations without charge. Additionally, mediated cases relieve the investigators from additional casework. The 76 cases mediated in 2009 could have easily consumed a full-time investigator's annual caseload.

Greater Satisfaction for Complainants and Officers

In the voluntary and anonymous exit survey that is set forth below, 85% of the participants were satisfied or very satisfied with the mediation program.

The following responses were received in the OCC mediation exit survey during 2009:

Rating of participant's experience with the mediation process –

32% - very satisfied
53% - satisfied
15% - dissatisfied.

Whether the mediation location provided a safe environment to freely express concerns and issues –

93% - yes
7 % - no

Percentage of mediation participants who felt they had the opportunity to be heard and express their thoughts –

96% -yes
4% -no

Percentage of participants who felt that the other party fully participated in the mediation –

93% - yes
7 % - no

Percentage of participants who felt that the mediators accurately identified and addressed the core issue of the complainant –

93% - yes
7% - no

Percentage of participants who felt that the complaint was totally resolved at the mediation –

Totally resolved – 42%
Partially resolved – 42%
Not resolved at all – 16%

Two examples of successful mediations follow:

Example #1

The Complainant was stopped for changing lanes without signaling. The Complainant was a taxi driver who did not have his medallion. The officer cited him for both infractions. The Complainant felt that the officer disrespected him.

At the mediation, the officer explained police procedures for making traffic stops. The Complainant told the officer how the encounter made him feel. At the end of the mediation, the parties shook hands and said “no hard feelings.”

Example #2

The Complainant had a restraining order against another man. The Complainant was walking down the street, when the man approached him and made a threatening remark. The Complainant approached two officers walking nearby to report the incident. The officers ignored the Complainant.

During mediation, the officers realized that the Complainant had a speech impediment and acknowledged that if they had listened to what the Complainant wanted to say, they might have taken a different police action. The Complainant indicated that the mediation helped both parties understand the other's perception and was an excellent method to resolve the complaint. The mediation participants ended their mediation by shaking hands.

XV. OUTREACH

In 2008, the OCC developed a Community Outreach Strategic Plan, which outlined its outreach goals in the areas of community presentations and partnerships, language access, training, website development, media relations, and program effectiveness and resources. By using a community-based approach that relies upon presentations, widely distributed written materials in multiple languages, and the OCC website, the OCC's Outreach Strategic Plan provided a roadmap for strengthening its relationships with communities which historically and statistically were likely to have encounters with the police. The OCC's Community Outreach Strategic Plan also sought to reach communities that have been racially, culturally or linguistically isolated from police services. Despite significant staffing shortages, the OCC has successfully implemented this ambitious outreach strategy.

In 2009, the OCC continued to work in coalition with representatives of numerous legal and community groups such as the Asian Law Caucus, Instituto Familiar de la Raza, Asian Pacific Islander Legal Outreach, Chinese for Affirmative Action and the Center for Criminal and Juvenile Justice, to name a few. In addition to its work investigating complaints, the OCC continued its efforts to inform members of the Department and community about the OCC's services and procedures. OCC representatives made presentations to Academy classes at the beginning and end of their training, and at Police Commission community meetings held in Ingleside and Tenderloin Districts and on Treasure Island.

Representatives from the OCC also gave presentations to other groups including Climate of Trust, the Bernal Heights Neighborhood/Community Center, the Community Assessment and Referral Center, the Girl Scouts of Northern California, Padres Unidos, three classes from San Francisco State University, the Oakland City Council Public Safety Committee, a BART Community Meeting, John O'Connell High School, a District 8 Community Meeting, the Immigrant's Rights Commission, a group from UC Berkeley Law School, La Voz Latina, the Tenant Collective, Chinese for Affirmative Action, and the Excelsior Teen Center.

In 2009, OCC staffed tables at the Southeast Summer Family Resource Fair, the Bayview/Hunters Point Back to School Celebration, the Big Rumble in the Mission, Marina and Sunset districts, the Chinatown Resource Fair, and at five Operation Homeless Connect events.

The OCC regularly distributed complaint forms and brochures in six languages to all police stations, the District Attorneys Office, the Public Defenders Office, the Mayor's Office of Neighborhood Services, the ACCESS Center, all twenty-seven branch libraries, the Mayor's Office on Aging and Adult Services, La Raza Centro Legal, and community centers including Community Boards, the Ella Hill Hutch Community Center, the Bayview Hunters Point Family Resource Center, the Bernal Heights and Mission Neighborhood Centers, the African American Resource Center, Community United against Violence, North Beach Neighborhood Homeless Services, the Community Justice Center, Lyric and Larking Street Youth Centers, the Transgender Law Center, Episcopal Community Services, Arriba Juntos, the African Immigrant Resource Center, and the Yerba Buena Community Center.

OCC staff members also met with representatives from the Jamaican Citizen Oversight Committee, the National Association of Civilian Oversight of Law Enforcement, and the Dorchester Police Department (United Kingdom), the American Civil Liberties Union, and the Transgender Law Center. In April, OCC representatives were interviewed for a documentary. In November, Director Hicks facilitated a roundtable discussion on the investigative model of civilian oversight and was a panelist on mediations at the annual conference for the National Association of Civilian Oversight of Law Enforcement ("NACOLE"). Additionally, an OCC investigator, Jayson Wechter, was a panelist on investigations at the annual NACOLE conference. Investigator Wechter also served as a board member for NACOLE.

In 2009, the OCC initiated a system to evaluate its outreach efforts. The data collected indicates that all of the presentations offered met the expectations of the audience, were given by presenters knowledgeable about the subject matter, and provided substantive written materials. Every evaluator indicated that he or she would attend future OCC presentations and would recommend the presentation to others.

In addition to receiving evaluations of its presentations, the OCC now uses a self-evaluation document for resource fairs and other events. The data gathered from these documents allows the OCC to constantly improve its outreach efforts and to reach its targeted audiences.

XVI. POLICY ANALYSIS

Policy analysis is another vital area of OCC's work. The OCC's policy work is led by attorney Samara Marion, the OCC's policy analyst. The San Francisco City Charter requires the OCC to present quarterly recommendations concerning San Francisco Police Department's policies or practices that enhance police-community relations while ensuring effective police services. In 2009 the OCC developed policy recommendations on a range of policing practices, including officer-involved shootings, in-custody deaths, mental health crises, shooting at cars, pursuits, extended range impact weapons, language access services and juvenile-police interactions.

During the last quarter of 2009, the San Francisco Police Department invited the OCC to participate in its officer-involved shooting study. By examining officer-involved shooting cases from the preceding five years, this study sought to evaluate the effectiveness of existing SFPD policies and procedures. Of the 15 cases subject to review in the Department's study, the OCC had received complaints and conducted investigations in seven of them. The OCC provided the Department the following recommendations:

- Adopt the Los Angeles Police Department's restricted shooting at vehicle policy that includes mandatory language and the rationale for the restrictions.
- Train and deploy specialized officers who are designated first responders to calls for service involving mentally ill individuals in crisis.
- Provide formal review of Extended Range Impact Weapon incidents because of their frequent use in situations involving mentally ill individuals.
- Provide training and protocols to address Limited English Proficient (LEP) victims, witnesses and suspects in OIS cases.
- Implement OCC recommendations the Police Commission conditionally adopted in 2004 concerning the designation and training of SFPD liaisons to families whose members have been killed during officer-involved shootings, in-custody deaths or traffic pursuits.
- Develop written guidelines and training materials concerning building searches and retrievals of individuals in confined spaces.
- Revise the Department's Response and Pursuit Driving Department General Order to ensure that supervisors have exclusive authority to add more units to a pursuit and that supervisory approval is required for the use of spike strips.

The OCC and the Department are currently discussing implementation strategies for the majority of these recommendations.

October 2009 marked the second anniversary of the adoption of Department General Order 5.20, the Police Department's language access protocol that the OCC and community groups initiated. The OCC, in conjunction with community representatives, assisted in the writing and filming of the SFPD's language access training video. The video demonstrates how language barriers undermine the reporting, investigation and prosecution of crime. The video instructs that a bilingual officer speaking directly to the limited English proficient ("LEP") individual is the best method of providing language assistance; civilian interpreters and telephone interpreters are appropriate alternatives when a bilingual officer is not available.

In November 2009 the OCC recommended the Department enhance its language access services by taking the following steps:

- Enhance the current system to promptly identify the availability, location and language skill of qualified bilingual officers and civilian interpreters and effectively dispatch them to the scene.
- Provide interpreter training to qualified bilingual officers and qualified civilian interpreters.
- Rank bilingual officers and bilingual civilian interpreters by their language proficiency to appropriately match personnel with the complexity of the communication.
- Equip officers in the field with cell phones to access a phone interpreter when a qualified bilingual officer or civilian interpreter is not available.
- Develop an in-house translation unit that translates documents, forms, materials and presentations for the Department.
- Implement a data collection system to analyze and make recommendations concerning the Department's use of qualified bilingual officers, qualified civilian interpreters and phone interpreters in light of the City's LEP population and its needs.
- Develop in-house subject matter experts on linguistic and cultural issues to design training materials, conduct community outreach, address language access concerns, promote technologically responsive solutions, and evaluate the effectiveness of the Department's language access services.

Throughout 2009 the OCC, along with community representatives, met regularly with SFPD to implement Department General Order 5.20.

In 2009, the OCC continued its steadfast work to implement Department General Order 7.01, a protocol for police interactions with juveniles. This DGO establishes new protocols for Miranda warnings, interrogations, parental notification, and the transporting and release of juveniles. The OCC helped facilitate the collaborative efforts of juvenile justice advocacy groups, city agencies, commissions and the Police Department to address DGO

7.01's requirement that youth be brought to juvenile-centered facilities instead of district stations holding adult suspects. In December 2009, the OCC proposed the following implementation plan to SFPD:

- Announce the new juvenile policies and procedures in a Priority A Department Bulletin that summarizes its key requirements.
- Issue a one-page reference guide for officers on the new juvenile policies and procedures.
- Design protocols and forms to comply with parental notification, Miranda, juvenile release and interrogation requirements.
- Provide recruit and advanced officer training on the new juvenile policies and procedures.
- Find an appropriate juvenile facility to conduct investigations or facilitate release or transfer of juveniles to avoid bringing juveniles to district stations.
- Make recording equipment available for all juvenile interrogations.
- Develop a public education plan that informs youth and their families of the new juvenile policies and procedures.
- Continue monthly meetings with juvenile justice stakeholders to implement these recommendations and report quarterly to the Police Commission on the status of these implementation goals.

In 2009 OCC's policy work resulted in establishing a more thorough review process for in-custody deaths. Since 2004, the OCC has advocated that in-custody deaths be subjected to the identical investigation, review and reporting procedure that the Police Commission adopted for officer-involved shootings. Through OCC persistence, the Police Department agreed to and the Police Commission approved, a protocol for in-custody deaths that provides the same scrutiny currently in place for officer-involved shootings.

XVII. CLERICAL UNIT

The clerical unit is led by Principal Clerk Linda Taylor. In 2009 the clerical unit was comprised of the Principal Clerk, two Senior Clerk Typists and three Clerk Typists. In 2009, the clerical team input 1018 complaints into the database, typed the disposition letters for the 1031 closed cases and updated the database accordingly. The OCC mailed approximately 137 complaint forms to citizens upon request.

Additionally, the OCC received 374 requests to process Pitchess Motions and Federal Court requests involving 1,431 San Francisco Police Department members. These requests were labor intensive and required ordering a voluminous number of documents from the off-site storage facility, scanning them and re-filing them.

Eighty-six document requests were received under the San Francisco Police Department's Performance Improvement Program (DGO 3.18) involving 136 San Francisco Police Department members. In addition the San Francisco City Attorney made 82 document requests.

The unreimbursed and unbudgeted cost to the OCC for document requests amounted to over $6,500 in retrieval fees billed by its storage contractor.

XVIII. INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY UNIT

The OCC's information technology function drives and supports its data intensive operations. Chris Wisniewski, OCC's Information Services Business Analyst ("IS Business Analyst"), performs that function. Achieved through forward-thinking investment, rigorous preventative maintenance and fine-tuning, 2009 saw continued and improved stability, reliability and usability of its core systems with no data loss or serious incidents of downtime or disruption to staff.

OCC's extensive keyword/phrase searchable intranet portal (first introduced in 2004) was migrated using free virtualization software and existing better performing hardware with better recovery protection to provide all staff faster browsing and quicker keyword/phrase search results on its electronic reference library. Unfortunately, the position which assists Mr. Wisniewski in upkeep of the intranet, OCC's public website and other special projects turned over twice in the course of the year due to budget cuts and may be eliminated. There were also other staffing changes which also required provision, deletion/creation of network/email accounts, reinstallation of PCs/telecom equipment and orientation.

The OCC purchased new computer monitors to replace aging ones which were beginning to fail. Their larger screen size can improve productivity, reduce printing costs and increase user buy-in to the OCC's database-driven case and electronic document management tools.

Mr. Wisniewski made great strides in shaping and sharpening of these tools. He developed and released the Investigator Case Browser to allow journey level investigators to work more collaboratively and contemporaneously with their supervisors and legal staff in prioritizing and managing caseloads. Case work summaries which detail each step taken in a case and digital voice recordings of complainant, officer and witness interviews are now fully integrated into the database. This allows one-click "drill-down" to details and an in depth view of a case. In 2009, the IS Business Analyst also worked with investigative staff to develop and implement a database driven time study as recommended by the Controller's Office in its 2007 audit of the OCC. Staff were trained and entered data on their daily tasks and time taken to complete them August through November. Some initial reporting and analysis has already taken place.

The IS Business Analyst also assisted clerical staff to establish procedures for digital recordings for Pitchess Motions/other legal requests and more efficient practices regarding photo and document scanning. The transition to digital recordings in 2009 reduced media costs, will cut storage and retrieval expenses and began to ease the process of fulfilling the document requests.

Finally, like last year, OCC saw another dramatic increase in demand for quantity and complexity of reporting produced from its systems. In addition to annual and quarterly Statistical, Early Intervention, Document Protocol, Keane and Performance Measure reports, special reports were prepared for the Police Commission on OCC mediations, E585 and SPOT citation concerns, Chief Gascón's briefing book, various units reporting to the Chief and community, the Chronicle concerning unnecessary force, the NACOLE conference in Denver and others, including academics from UC Berkeley and Harvard.

XIX. PERFORMANCE MEASURES

Performance measures are a part of the OCC's annual budget. The budget is adopted on a fiscal year that runs from July 1 through June 30. Performance measure data has been adjusted to a calendar year basis for the purposes of this report. The statistics below are based on the calendar year 2009 and the targets have been adjusted to average the targets and projected numbers for two fiscal half years, i.e., the latter half of fiscal year 2008/2009 (January 1 through June 30, 2009) and the first half of fiscal year 2009/2010 (July 1 through December 31, 2010).

1. Goal 1 - Address civilian complaints of police misconduct professionally and efficiently
 - a. Measure number 1 - This performance measure identifies the number of completed investigations that contained at least one sustained allegation. There is no target or projection because such a target may give the impression that the agency's mission is to find misconduct where there is none. However, the measurement is used to comparatively evaluate agency workload and performance, as well as to evaluate caseload management. The actual number of sustained cases from January 1 through December 31, 2009 was 53, or a 5.14% sustained rate.
 - b. Measure number 2 - Percentage of sustained complaints completed in a timely manner. The actual percentage from January 1 through December 30, 2009 was 98 %. The target was 100%. The projected is 100%.

The variance between the actual and target is due to one case that contained sustained findings of misconduct which were forwarded to the Chief's office beyond the one year time period specified by law.

- c. Measure number 3 - Number of complaints closed during the year per FTE investigator. The target is 60 per year and 30 per six months. The actual from January 1 through December 31, 2009 was 61. The projected was 60 cases per investigator per year.
2. Goal 2 - Facilitate corrective action in response to complaints
 - a. Measure number 1- Percentage of identified cases in which policy, procedure, and practice recommendations are presented to the SFPD or the Police Commission. The actual from January 1 through December 30, 2009 was 166%. The target and the projected are 90% for fiscal year 2009/2010 and the target and projected for fiscal year 2008/2009 was 90%.

The OCC presented 15 policy recommendations to the SFPD and/or the Police Commission from January 1 through December 31, 2009. The OCC closed 9 cases during the measurement period where policy, procedure and/or practice failure were identified. Not all policies presented to the Commission and/or SFPD are the same ones that relate to cases closed as policy recommendations in the measurement period. Further, the OCC, working with the Police Department, is creating policy materials in response to recommendations made to the Police Commission. The Commission has instituted timeliness and priorities for this policy work.

- b. Measure number 2 – Percentage of sustained cases that resulted in corrective or disciplinary action by the Chief or Police Commission. The actual from January to December 31, 2009 was 90%. The target and projected is 90%.

Over the past decade, the rate of sustained cases that resulted in corrective action by the Chief of Police has ranged from 66% to 95%. Improved communication and discussion between the OCC and SFPD and more timely imposition of discipline by the Police Department may facilitate consistent findings.

XX. CONTROLLER'S AUDIT

On September 17, 2009, the City Services Auditor (CSA) published a follow up memorandum that addressed OCC's progress on the 38 recommendations that it made in its January 24, 2007 audit report on OCC's operations. The Auditor cited the OCC's self assessment that of the 38 recommendations, the OCC had fully implemented 18, partially implemented 11 and not yet implemented 9.

The CSA reviewed eight of its recommendations to measure whether the OCC had implemented them. Of the eight recommendations the CSA reviewed, the CSA determined that the OCC had fully implemented four and partially implemented four. In the CSA's own words, "[t]o conduct the follow-up, CSA met with key OCC personnel to discuss the status of the corrective actions taken to date and, for the eight recommendations selected for this follow-up, obtained documentary evidence, verified the existence of processes that have been established, and documented the results of our fieldwork." The CSA's assessments of the eight recommendations it reviewed and in two instances OCC's responses are:

- 1) Recommendation number 2 - Complete investigations within nine months or 10 months at the latest. (Partially implemented)
- 2) Recommendation number 8 - Develop and implement a notification process when investigations will take longer than nine months. (Partially implemented.)
- 3) Recommendation number 9 - Integrate casework summaries into case tracking system. (Implemented.)
- 4) Recommendation number 12 - In the Keane Report, list the cases chronologically and include the number of days a case has been open. (Partially implemented.) (Fully implemented on August 28, 2009, as evidenced in this third quarter report.)⁴

⁴ After the completion of the audit review, the OCC amended the Keane report to include a field that shows the number of days a case has been open.

- 5) Recommendation number 25 - Develop performance plans and implement performance appraisals for OCC employees. (Implemented.)
- 6) Recommendation number 32 - Comply with reporting requirements and post reports on the OCC website. (Implemented.)
- 7) Recommendation number 35 - Develop and present to the Police Commission an annual outreach strategic plan. (Partially implemented.) (Fully implemented by September 1, 2009, using survey tools to measure the effectiveness of its outreach activities.)⁵
- 8) Recommendation number 40 - Include in the OCC annual report data from the intake log on language spoken by complainants. (Implemented.)

The CSA also stated that, “[a] s a result of the audit recommendations being implemented, the OCC’s operations should be more efficient, effective, transparent, and compliant with City laws and policy.”

The CSA’s report, including the OCC’s response can be found at <http://www.sfgov.org/site/uploadedfiles/controller/reports/OCCFollowUpMemo.pdf>.

While this annual report will not address all 38 of the recommendations, we will highlight our accomplishments and challenges. The report recommended that specifically the OCC should:

- Monitor its progress on investigations and work with the SFPD to complete the investigation and discipline notification process within the one-year statute of limitations, with the specific goal of completing all investigations within the Charter guideline of nine months, but definitely no later than ten months.
In 2009 the OCC improved its timeliness on sustained cases. The percentage of sustained cases that were completed within 270 days increased to 49% in 2009 from 33% in 2008. The number of untolled cases that were completed after the one year statute of limitations decreased to one in 2009 from four in 2008.
- Identify staff training needs and develop a plan to meet those needs for both new and current staff.
In 2009, OCC staff received Force Options training at the Police Academy from Sergeant Michael Nevin and Sergeant Dennis Quinn, where each participant was confronted with scenarios that required the participant to make split second decisions similar to those that officers have to make on when to use force. Additionally, Captain David Lazar addressed OCC staff on the implementation of Police Executive Research

⁵ After the completion of the audit review, the OCC finalized its survey tools for measuring the effectiveness of its outreach activities and began distributing them.

Forum (PERF) recommendations at Ingleside Station. Also in 2009, as part of the strategic training plan for investigators the new investigators attended POST, Internal Affairs investigation training as well as Investigative Interview and Interrogation Techniques. At his own expense, an investigator attended a National Association of Legal Investigators conference. The conference included sessions on crime scene analysis, night time/low light digital photography of investigations and accident investigation.

A strategic training plan for investigators was completed in 2009. In May, the OCC Executive Director attended a three day seminar conducted by Dr. Lorie Fridell on Racially Biased Policing. The seminar was hosted by the Palo Alto Police Department and attended by members of that department as well as police department representatives from East Palo Alto, San Jose and San Francisco. Attending also was a representative from the Department of Justice and community members from Palo Alto and East Palo Alto.

- Enhance staff communication.

We enhanced communication by holding weekly management team and unit team meetings and periodic investigator and staff meetings. Additionally, email was used to communicate recent developments including notice of cases adjudicated by the Chief of Police. In 2009, the office held 4 all hands investigator meetings and 5 all hands staff meetings.

- Increase Mediations

The number of mediated cases increased by 65% in the three years that the OCC has had dedicated mediation coordination. In 2009 mediated cases were increased by 7% to 76 over the 71 that were mediated in 2008. In 2008 cases mediated were increased by 50% to 71 over the 46 that were mediated in 2007.

- Develop a community outreach strategic plan and measure its effectiveness

A Community Outreach Strategic Plan was developed and implemented in 2008. Community outreach was included as a performance measure in the employees' performance plans and in late 2009 two survey tools were developed to measure the effectiveness of outreach. One survey tool is a self evaluation for OCC staff to complete when the outreach activity does not lend itself to participant evaluation. The second survey tool is for participants to complete when the participants are in a classroom setting and are receiving a presentation from the OCC.

- Assess whether adequate resources exist to accomplish OCC's mission

The OCC continued to be understaffed based on the number of complaints it receives each year. To reach the best practices caseload of 16 cases per investigator, the OCC needed 25 journey level investigators, but it had only 17 in 2009. The budget did not permit the addition of new staff.

In 2008, three positions OCC had successfully advocated be added to its budget remained unfilled due to the City's severe budget deficit. These positions included a line investigator, a senior investigator and a senior clerk typist. They were eliminated in 2009 to meet OCC's mandated budget reduction.

XXI. CONCLUSION

The OCC turned the corner in 2009 in effective case management and staff stability. Due to severe citywide budget constraints, the OCC was unable to hire additional investigator and support staff that would have improved case resolution time. However, through effective case management and supervision, the OCC reduced the time it took to conclude its investigations and increased the number of cases with sustained allegations.
